CHANDLER POISON CHARGES IN KENTUCKY ORDERED INVESTIGATED BY GRAND JURY

AFL and Leaders Of Georgia Labor Back George 100%

President William Green
Writes That Senator
Has Supported All of Federation's Measures.

RESERVES VOTES,
AFL HEAD STATES

Air, Considerate and 'valuable Service,' Gram-bling Writes of Incumbent

Senator George yesterday received the combined endorsements of pledges of support from the American Federation of Labor and members of the Georgia Federation of Labor.

Senator George previously had been "black-listed" by labor's non-Partisan League, the political arm of the CIO.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, sent a letter to Charles B. Gram-bling, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, endorsing Senator George's record 100 per cent.

President Grambling last night made the text of President Green's letter public.

Green's Indorsement.
The letter of Green follows:

Mr. Charles B. Grambling, President, Georgia Federation of Labor, Route 5, Box 356, Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir and Brother:
Replying to the inquiry you submit in your letter of recent date I find that the record of Senator George is 100 per cent.

Senator George's record is 100 per cent. He has given wholehearted and most valuable support to the legislative program of the American Federation of Labor. The record made in support of labor legislation is 100 per cent favorable.

It would be highly contradictory for labor to fail to extend full measure of support to Senator George in his campaign for re-election to the United States senate after he had voted for all measures sponsored and approved by the American Federation of Labor.

It has ever been the policy of the American Federation of Labor to support candidates for the United States senate who have support to labor measures sponsored by the American Federation of Labor.

We consistently support our legislative friends and oppose our legislative enemies regardless of political affiliation. Senator George has earned the support of labor in Georgia for re-election to the United States senate. I am sure the officers and members of the American Federation of Labor and all their friends in Georgia will respond and give to Senator George a full measure of support. He deserves re-election to the United States senate because of the fine record he made in support of the American Federation of Labor legislative program.

I join with the officers of the Georgia State Federation of Labor in endorsing Senator George.

Very truly yours,
William Green, President, American Federation of Labor.

ATLANTAN KILLED; SON IS ARRESTED

Quarrel Over Radio Parts Is Blamed in Slaying of B. O. Johnston, 64.

B. O. Johnston, 64, was shot and killed yesterday morning in the doorway of his furniture store at 457 Edgewood avenue, N. E.

His son, Floyd Johnston, 30, was being held last night by police on a blanket charge of "suspicion-murder."

J. M. Nunn, a clerk in a grocery store across the street, told police that he heard three shots fired inside the Johnston store, when the son came out, and fired twice at his father through a screen door.

Of the five shots, four took effect. Johnston was hit in his left shoulder and chest, in his right arm and groin. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Georgia Baptist hospital.

After the shooting, Floyd Johnston walked into a market next door.

Flyer Corrigan Will Visit Atlanta Sometime After 1st of September

By JACK SPALDING III.
Douglas Corrigan, who does everything backwards; he's an Irish Baptist, and landed in Dublin when he set out for California, yesterday said he would be delighted to visit Atlanta any time after the first of September.

The aviator was invited here by a committee of air-minded citizens, headed by Jesse Draper. The invitation was enthusiastically approved and seconded by Mayor Hartsfield.

Corrigan was reached by telephone at his hotel in New York.
Herman Talmadge, son of the ex-Governor, did the phoning at the suggestion of committee members.

"I had no trouble getting in touch with him," Talmadge said.

ABILITY OF F. D. R. TO SWAY VOTERS FACES NEW TEST

Citizens of Ohio, Idaho,

Will Go to Polls Today To Name Party Tickets.

Outcome of Contests May

tion in Georgia Speech.

for senate, governor and 24 seats in the house of representatives.

ARKANSAS—Nominates candi-

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(AP)—
The ability of Roosevelt administration leaders to sway Democratic voters in their choice of senatorial candidates will be tested anew in some of the primary contests to be settled tomorrow.

Citizens of Ohio, Idaho, Arkansas and Nebraska will select their party tickets for the fall elections.
The outcome of some of the contests may decide how far the President will go in the south later this week toward indicating his opposition to senators who have opposed a substantial portion of the New Deal and are now up for renomination.

New Deal Issues.
In the campaigns ending at the polls tomorrow, the issue of New Deal loyalty versus flatly asserted independence has been raised most clearly in Idaho, although Mr.
Roosevelt did not go into that state on his recent transcontinental tour.

Senator Pope, of Idaho, is running for renomination against Representative D. Worth Clark, who says "a senator must rely on his own judgment." Pope has campaigning as a 100 per cent supporter of administration measures. He received the good wishes of Secretary of State Hull and James A.
Farley, the Democratic national chairman, and Mr. Roosevelt himself has given aid to Pope's proposals for the development of phosphate lands in the west.

Politicians here have raised the question whether some Idaho Republicans might take a hand in deciding this contest. A new primary ballot, on which the names of both party's candidates are printed, would enable them to do so without sacrificing their right to vote Republican this fall. Their leaders have counseled them, however, to participate instead in the selection of their own party's candidate.

tween Robert A. Taft, son of the former President, and Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day, for

WIFE, 2 CHILDREN ARE FOUND HACKED ALMOST TO DEATH

Musella Salesman Breaks Into House, Makes Gory Discovery in Bedroom; Girl Blames Her Mother.

MATE STANDS BY TO GIVE HIS BLOOD

Woman Is President of Musella School Parent-Teacher Association.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 8.—A woman and her two children were discovered almost hacked to death in the blood-spattered bedroom of their home near here this afternoon when neighbors helped the husband, L. J. Taylor, break into the house.

The woman, Mrs. Iris Ingram
Taylor, president of the Musella School Parent-Teacher Association, and her children, Shirley, 12, and James Andrew, 8, lay near death tonight in a hospital here from hatchet and razor wounds which one of the children said the mother inflicted.

At the bedside of the three are the woman's husband, L. J. Taylor, and several friends ready to submit to blood transfusions to save their lives.

Front Door Locked.
Sheriff H. E. Seagler, of Knoxville, said the husband, a food products salesman of Musella, Crawford county, found his wife and children shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon when he went to the home after work and tried to enter the house through the front door and found it locked. He called to some neighbors and together they opened a side window.

"When I looked in the window,
I saw my little girl lying in a bed covered with blood and my wife lying on the floor with her throat slashed," he said. "My son was another bed."

Attaches at the Macon hospital said Mrs. Taylor, evidently cut with a razor, had wounds on her throat and wrists. The children both suffered head wounds. All are in critical condition, attaches said, but the daughter has the best chance of surviving.

Girl Still Conscious.
Sheriff Seagler said the girl, Shirley, was still conscious when the father and neighbors arrived but upon being revived accused her mother of the assaults.

Shirley was quoted as saying the mother gave her and her little brother some "pills" at nighttime, and told them to go to bed for a "long sleep."

"We were in the front yard when mother said, 'Let's go in and take a nap!'" the child was quoted as saying. "After I went to sleep, something bumped my head and I saw mother standing over Jimmy with a hatchet in her hand."

Sheriff Seagler said the hatchet was found on the floor, but that the razor holder was found near the hatchet, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor came to Crawford county in August, 1934.
They were married 15 years ago while both were employed at the Gordon Institute, Barnesville. Mr.
Taylor was then assistant professor of military science and Mrs.
Taylor was librarian.

She is a native of Lamar county.
The sheriff late tonight said he had made no charges.

Strip-Teaser Wins Gamble With Death

Ada Says 'I'm in as Good Shape as Ever' as She Recovers Sans Scar.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Ada
Leonard, dark-haired strip-tease dancer who risked death rather than mar her "perfect body" with an operation for appendicitis, announced today she was in "as good shape as I ever was" and will quit the hospital and return to work next month.

Miss Leonard was stricken with appendicitis, and while she argued with her doctors about an operation, the appendix ruptured and peritonitis set in.

After hovering for days between life and death, refusing to permit an operation which might leave a scar, physicians said she had passed the crisis and today she was well on the way to recovery.

For three weeks her physician has been treating the ruptured appendix with ice packs, and Miss Leonard said she was as good as new and ready to get back into harness—or out of it.

JAPANESE REJECT RUSSIA'S TERMS FOR BORDER PEACE

Additional Reserves Are Called to Colors in Fear That Red Army Will Strike in Retaliation.

'HALF-WAY' PLAN
URGED ON U.S.S.R.

Official Moscow Press
Threatens Full Force of Army May Be Used.

TOKYO, Aug. 9.—(Tuesday).— (UP)—Japan massed additional men and military equipment along the borders of Soviet Russia today in anticipation of new attacks following an announcement by Foreign Minister General Ugaki that Russia's counter-proposals for a peaceful settlement of border clashes are not satisfactory.

Reserves were called to the colors as the crisis deepened.

It was admitted Russian Foreign Commissar Litvinoff in his last conversation with Ambassador Shigemitsu in Moscow on Sunday night made concessions and
"showed a more conciliatory spirit" but the Japanese position was that Moscow must go further and at least meet Japan half-way in effecting an end to the hostilities around Changkufeng hill, where Japan's Korean and Manchukuo dependencies adjoin the Soviet Ussuri province.

Want to Save Face.
At the war office it was emphasized that while Japan wants peace it must be "peace with honor"— that is an arrangement which will not involve any loss of military or political prestige for this country.

The extent to which Japan's border forces, heretofore estimated at from 300,000 to 500,000, have been reinforced, was not revealed but activity at the war office indicated that extensive troop movements were under way and that additional reservists were being called to the colors.

(Peiping reported that many troop trains were going northward and that probably 75,000 Japanese troops had been transferred to the Russian front from North China during the past week.

6 Trains a Day.
(An average of six troop trains a day was reported passing through Mukden, chief railway center of Manchukuo and an important Japanese military base. Transports loaded with Japanese cavalry left Tientsin Sunday for Dai-ren, en route to the border front.)

Despite warlike gestures by both sides, however, diplomats believed that the Litvinoff-Shigemitsu conversations would be continued and that chances were better than ever that some sort of a local arrangement to settle the Changku-feng fighting, where Russians are trying to recapture a hilltop from which the Japanese expelled them last week, will be effected.

Dies of Hemorrhage

MRS. WALTER P. CHRYSLER.

Mrs. Chrysler, Wife of Auto Maker, Dies

Iron Lung Fails to Save Her; Family at Bedside.

GREAT NECK, N. Y., Aug. 8.—
(AP)—Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler, wife of the automobile manufacturer, died at her home tonight after a cerebral hemorrhage.

All members of the family were at the bedside when death occurred at 6 p. m. Atlanta time.

Mrs. Chrysler was stricken earlier in the day and was placed in an iron lung. She had been treated several months for high blood pressure, her son, Walter Jr., said. She complained after dinner Sunday night of feeling ill and retired early.

Wife Unconscious.
Mr. Chrysler, who also has been confined to his King's Point estate, arose shortly after 2 a. m. and found his wife unconscious. He called a local physician who ordered oxygen from the local fire department. Dr. Arthur Chase, who had been attending Mrs. Chrysler, was summoned from Saratoga and arrived shortly after noon.

An iron lung was immediately ordered and Mrs. Chrysler was placed in it. Oxygen was being administered continuously.

Mrs. Chrysler was 62. She was born February 20, 1876, in Ellis, Kansas.

She died in the iron lung without regaining consciousness after suffering the hemorrhage.

Besides her husband and son, Walter, her survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Foy and Mrs. Bernice Garbisch, and a son, Jack.

Mrs. Chrysler was the former Della V. Forker, who became engaged to the millionaire automobile manufacturer when as a railroad man in Ellis, he was earning only $1.50 a day. Her father was the town's leading merchant. She showed a fondness for fast harness horses.

Chrysler often said in later years that she was "born to be rich."

GOVERNOR, AIDE ASKED TO APPEAR AT STATE INQUIRY

Barkley's Majority
Mounts to 60,331 Votes in Saturday's Primary; Happy Promises Support

INCUMBENTS KEEP SEATS IN CONGRESS

Mrs. Chandler Blames Husband's Defeat To
'Promise of U. S. Money'

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8.—(AP)
Commonwealth's Attorney Meritt
O'Neal said tonight Governor A.
B. Chandler, J. Dan Talbott, state finance commissioner, and Lieutenant Jesse Wyatt, of the state highway patrol, stricken ill in a hotel here during the Barkley-Chandler senatorial campaign, had been asked to appear before a special grand jury to investigate reports the three were poisoned from drinking water.

O'Neal said he had written "courteous letters" to the trio but had not issued subpoenas for them.

Early in the night Criminal Judge Loraine Mix had called the special grand jury to meet Monday.

These developments came as Senate Majority Leader Barkley's lead mounted to more than 60,000 votes over Chandler in Saturday's senatorial primary.

Concedes Defeat.
The last tabulation of the day of unofficial returns from 4,058 of 4,313 precincts in the state, with 118 counties complete, gave:

Barkley, 274,131.
Chandler, 213,800.
Barkley's majority, 60,331.

When asked at Frankfort about his appearance before the grand jury, Governor Chandler said:

"I have not received any message and I am planning on leaving on a vacation trip day after tomorrow."

Talbott, when asked a similar question, replied to one in an official capacity had approached him concerning his illness.

He added:
"If I don't get any more satisfaction out of a grand jury investigation than I did the chief of police and the chief of detectives
I am not interested."

Asked to say definitely whether he would accept the commonwealth's invitation Talbott replied: "I don't know where I'll

He said he had been confined

Nude Beauty Found Walking in Park

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(P)—Patrolman John Pfeuffer's eyes bulged in amazement tonight when they fell on an attractive young brunette striding through Central park in the rain, clothed only in a rapt smile, her head held high.

He summoned his courage to ask her what the idea, please? "Nothing at all," she replied. "I love to walk in the rain—just this way." She carried her clothes in a bundle.

Pfeuffer threw his raincoat over her when she refused to dress. At the police station she gave her name as Ann Evans, 21, and was taken to Bellevue hospital for observation.

Clubwoman Praises Cook Book As 'Geared to Modern Kitchen'

President Little Likes Way Basic Recipes Are Presented.

Mrs. James R. Little, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, finds America's Cook Book of great value to housewives and home-makers.

Mrs. Little declares: "I find that the basic recipes are especially stressed. They are the foundation on which all others are constructed."

"The recipes are geared to the modern kitchen and they tell how to mix, cook and bake on all new appliances, as well as how to take care of them."

"Departments on table-setting and service, backed by the authority of Mrs. Emily Post, of the Home Institute staff in New York, are very enlightening and interesting."

MAYOR CLAMPS BAN ON PARADE ESCORTS

Motorcycle Corps To Shy From Political Fanfare, Hartsfield Declares.

Because of its intensive campaign to curb automobile accident fatalities, the city of Atlanta cannot delegate motorcycle policemen to act as escort for out-of-town political motorcades, Mayor Hartsfield asserted yesterday.

The mayor said many candidates had asked for officers with motorcycles to lead political parades, but that he and Chief Hornsby had agreed the city could not spare the officers from duty.

However, out of respect for President Roosevelt, city policemen will be sent to Athens and Barnesville to help handle the crowds, the mayor said.

He notified department heads yesterday that city employees who could be spared from their work would be allowed to go to Barnesville for the President's address. The city will not declare a holiday, however.

EX-ATLANTA CHILD KILLED BY BULLET. Pistol Discharge Fatal to Donald Murphy, 4.

Four-year-old Donald Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Edwin Murphy, formerly of Atlanta, was killed instantly yesterday afternoon when a pistol he was holding was discharged at the home in Laurens, S. C., relatives and friends in Atlanta learned last night.

The child is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Davis, of Whiteford avenue, S. E. He was born here, the family moving to South Carolina a year ago.

Surviving, besides the parents, are a brother, Edwin Murphy Jr., and a sister, Joan Murphy.

The body will be brought to Atlanta today for last rites and burial.

HARTSFIELD NAMES PRISON COMMITTEE

Three Investigators Will Supervise Operation of Department Under Gibson

A new council standing committee to supervise operation of the city prison department under its new general manager, H. H. Gibson, was appointed yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield.

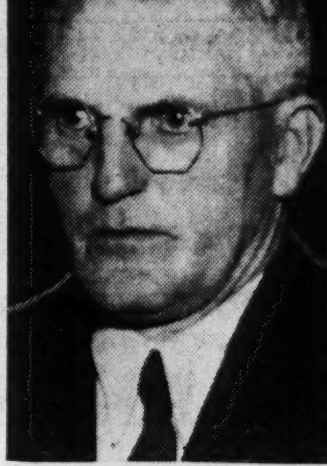

Councilman Charles L. Chosewood was named chairman, to serve with Alderman Ed A. Gilliam and Councilman J. Allen Couch.

These three comprised the special prison investigating committee appointed by Mayor Pro Tem. Robert Carpenter to probe conditions at the prisons which Mayor Hartsfield had termed "an ungodly mess."

Gibson, University of Georgia graduate, who was elected general manager by council, Hartsfield said, "I named them to the standing committee so they can co-operate with Gibson in bettering conditions at the prisons."

Appointment of the new general manager, increase in the personnel of the probation office, and a new agricultural policy for the city farms were the recommendations of the special committee.

GILLIAM WILL ASK VOTE ON 'DAYLIGHT'

Councilmen Want Expression From Atlantans on Time Changes.

If an effort is made to change Atlanta's time to Eastern Standard, the people should also have the opportunity to vote whether they want daylight saving time, Alderman Ed A. Gilliam said yesterday.

He asserted he will introduce a resolution in council next Monday to place the subject of daylight saving time on the ballots if a referendum on time is ordered by the Fulton County Democratic executive committee.

Alderman I. Gloer Hailey had said already that he would ask council to adopt a resolution requesting the executive committee to place the question of Eastern Standard, Central Standard and Central Daylight Saving time on the ballots in the September 14 primary.

Councilman Cecil W. Hester, who is en route to California for a vacation, said he would sponsor a move for changing Atlanta's time to Eastern in September.

Mayor Hartsfield declared yesterday that he thinks it an inopportune time to take up the question again.

The city for the past three years has had daylight saving time in the summer, being on Central Standard time the remainder of the year. The "fast time" begins the last Sunday of April and ends the last Sunday of September.

AFL, GFL LEADERS SUPPORT GEORGE

Senator Has Backed All Federation's Bills, William Green Writes.

bor in calling upon labor throughout the State of Georgia and all its friends to re-elect Senator George to the United States senate by a most decisive majority.

Fraternally yours, (Signed) WM. GREEN, President, American Federation of Labor and GFL's Indorsement.

President Gramling, after making Green's letter public, issued following statement to The Constitution:

"The officers of the Georgia Federation of Labor, having made a careful canvass of the official record of Senator George and being fully convinced of his fairness toward the workers in legislative matters coming before him, his hesitancy in indorsing his candidacy for re-election to the United States senate.

As for my own position, taking only the diligent investigation Senator George's record as transmitted by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, I have taken a public stand for Senator George with the conviction that he has rendered and will continue to render fair, considerate and valuable service to the workers of our state and nation.

"Speaking for and with the approval of the executive board of the Georgia Federation of Labor, I am transmitting a letter from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, indorsing Senator George for re-election by the people of Georgia, giving ample reasons for his position, and fully joining the action of the officers of the Georgia Federation of Labor."

Therefore, in view of the official record and President Green's indorsement of our action as of Senator George, the Georgia Federation of Labor, I feel it incumbent upon me to support Senator George in his candidacy for re-election."

George Is Grateful. Senator George, when told last night of President Green's action and of the statement of Mr. Gramling, issued the following statement:

"I am grateful for the strong indorsement of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for my record as senator and of the statement of Mr. Gramling, issued the following statement:

"I am grateful for the strong indorsement of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for my record as senator and of the statement of Mr. Gramling, issued the following statement:

Japanese Vessel Cruises Around Reef 5 Times.

TOKYO, Aug. 9.—(Tuesday)—(P)—The Japanese steamer, Carberra Maru, reported today it was proceeding to a point 11 miles northeast of Douglas reef following currents which might have carried the Hawaii Clipper missing in the Pacific.

The Japanese vessel said it cruised five times around Douglas reef, 800 miles south of Japan, without finding the trace of the Clipper, which disappeared July 28 while flying from Guam to Manila with 15 persons aboard.

LOWER LICENSE FEES FOR MARKETS URGED

Recommendation for lowering business license fees on large markets from a maximum of $50 per year to $250 will be taken city council Monday by the tax committee.

At a public hearing yesterday the committee voted not to recommend any change in the license fee for grocery stores, but agreed to cut in half the maximum fee to most markets doing an annual volume of business of $25,000 or more. Though small meat markets will continue to pay on the same basis they are now, markets doing a volume of business from $7,500 per year up will get a reduction in their fees corresponding to the cut in the maximum fee.

Americans Can Look to Their Army With Confidence, Asserts Moseley

War Maneuvers Termed Highly Successful by Commander.

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, DE SOTO NATIONAL FOREST, Miss., Aug. 8.—(P)—The end of Uncle Sam's most elaborate army maneuvers in history brought a reassuring statement today from Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commanding the Fourth Corps area.

"The American people," he said, in discussing the success of the week-long exercises, "can look to their army with complete confidence." The maneuvers were featured by the closest simulation to actual warfare ever attempted before in peacetime.

General Moseley termed the maneuvers highly successful. He said one of the greatest problems had been in assembling in southern Mississippi more than 27,000 officers and men from great distances.

If that concentration was a complete success, he said, "it showed that these troops were prepared to make the move and that in an emergency large forces could be assembled in an orderly fashion and in a very short period of time on any threatened point of the southern coastal frontier."

Something New. Moseley said that placing this great number of men in the field with only regular field equipment was something completely new in army maneuvers and gave officers and soldiers a chance to shift for themselves.

They were called upon to bring only stripped field equipment," the commander continued, "and with these limited facilities to solve all the problems of supply, sanitation and combat."

There was the problem of the message that never arrived, the command which took the wrong road, the truck train which was captured or stuck in the mud.

"All these incidents are valuable in future training," Moseley said.

The general commended army regulars, reserves and national guardsmen as doing "mighty well" under the severe physical handicaps.

"One of the outstanding features of the maneuvers was the fine spirit that prevailed throughout all organizations," Moseley said. "Not a grumble was heard from the lads who struggled in the mud and dust."

Maneuver Problem. The problem of the maneuvers pitted an invading "brown" army of 16,000 men against a defending "blue" force of 9,000. Brown, according to the problem, landed on the coast of the Gulf of Mexico with the aim of marching north to capture Hattiesburg, Miss., and control the lower Mississippi valley.

Blue retreated more than 10 miles in face of Brown's "greater strength," but phantom "reinforcements" which arrived early this morning, turned the advantage of superior numbers to Blue. Brown was in full retreat when "armistice" was announced this morning. Officers hotly debated the tactics employed during the "war" by Major General Henry D. Russell, of Macon, Ga., commanding the Blue defenders. Some said he should have stuck to his specific orders to prevent the invaders from crossing Red creek. Others said Russell showed enterprise in departing from the letter of his orders and slowly withdrawing in face of a superior force pending arrival of reinforcements.

General Moseley said the Blue force failed to accomplish its purpose of holding Brown at Red creek. The "invaders" commanded by Major General Albert H. Blanding, of Washington, easily crossed the stream in the wake of Blue's retreat.

Soldiers, "glad the war is over," cleaned off dirt and sweat of the week's campaign tonight, preparing to return to their homes in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, the Carolinas and Tennessee.

KENTUCKY TO PROBE POISONING CHARGES

Chandler Concedes Defeat, Promises To Support Senator Barkley.

to his room for two weeks and that he was advised after an examination by a heart specialist "to get away from here to save my life."

The usual slow count in Jefferson county on the day's tabulation showed Barkley continuing his tremendous gains. With 334 of 621 precincts counted Barkley had 30,847 votes to 10,487 for Chandler. The tabulating was stopped at 5:30 p. m. for the night.

Only a few precincts had been counted when Breathitt county took a recess until tomorrow. The count was delayed in that county because of the killing of one election official and the shooting of two more—one of whom also was an election officer—in pre-primary gunplay.

Police served a warrant yesterday on Dr. J. W. Bryan, who diagnosed Chandler's illness as poisoning, charging him with violating a city ordinance by failing to report the case to the police chief within two hours. His appearance in ordinance court is required Thursday.

Dr. Bryan attended Governor Chandler on the night of July 21 when he and Talbott and Wyatt were taken ill.

Called "Publicity." Dr. Bryan in a statement later said the three men had been made ill by "poison" in drinking water. Dr. H. E. McCormack, state health commissioner, subsequently backed up Dr. Bryan's diagnosis.

Following Dr. Bryan's statement the Louisville police chief and head of the city detectives said they had made an investigation and termed the theory "poisoning" a "publicity stunt" and a "political bedtime story."

The incident came near the close of the heated senatorial campaign between Senator Alben Barkley and Governor Chandler. A few days ago the Louisville civil service commission censured the police officers for the statements attributed to them.

Chandler was taken to the Governor's mansion in an ambulance, where he remained several days away from speaking engagements. The Governor reported even after resuming his speaking program that he felt weak.

Mrs. Chandler, a seasoned campaigner, took up the itinerary, for the Governor and filled his engagements for several days. Lieutenant Governor Keene Johnson also spoke for the Governor.

Governor Chandler, from the mansion at Frankfort, conceded his defeat in a congratulatory telegram in which he pledged his active support to Barkley in the November general election. The senator, at Paducah, replied, thanking the Governor for his message.

Mrs. Chandler at Frankfort in an interview charged her husband's defeat was due to federal money "promised or spent" in Kentucky.

Incumbents Renominated. From unofficial returns it was apparent all incumbent congressmen had been renominated. Of the eight Democrats, three were without opposition—Representatives Noble J. Gregory, of the first; Beverly M. Vincent, of the second; and Edward W. Creal, of the fourth.

Those congressmen with opposition, apparently re-nominated are: Emmet O'Neal, of the third (Jefferson county); Brent Spence in the fifth; Virgil M. Chapman, of the sixth; A. J. May in the seventh; and Joe E. Bates in the eighth. All will have Republican opposition in the general election.

In Washington Senator Burke, Nebraska Democrat, who frequently has opposed the administration, suggested Barkley's victory "put him in the running as one of the contenders for the presidential nomination in 1940."

Burke added to reporters, however, "but I am for (Vice President) Garner. I have just one choice."

Governor Chandler's telegram to Senator Barkley read, in part: "President Roosevelt said he desired your return and a majority of Kentucky Democrats agreed to return you. I bow to the will of the majority of my fellow citizens. I have no excuses, alibis or regrets. As the Democratic nominee you will have my active support in the November general election and I wish you a successful term in the senate."

Senator's Reply. The senator replied: "Let me thank you most sincerely for your cordial telegram regarding my re-nomination for the senate."

Mrs. Chandler also said in the interview: "Happy's (Governor Chandler's) defeat was caused by the $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 of federal funds spent or promised in the campaign."

Mrs. Chandler expressed a wish that her husband would "get out of politics."

Ability of President To Sway Voters Is Facing New Test.

The Republican senatorial nomination, has shared the attention with the Democratic senatorial race and the President's part in that contest.

Day has accused Taft of trying to buy the nomination with tremendous campaign expenditures. Denying the charge, Taft said his opponent's "mud-slinging" tactics were tending to ruin the party.

Senator Bulkeley and former Governor George White have both been campaigning for the Democratic senatorial nomination as administration supporters. During his recent trip through Ohio, Mr. Roosevelt spoke words of praise for Bulkeley.

Another element of more than state-wide interest in the Ohio primary is the contest between Governor Martin L. Davey and former Lieutenant Governor Charles Sawyer for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The Federal Social Security Board has accused Davey of using the old-age pension system to further his candidacy, and the Governor in turn has defied the board to find a "thin excuse" to withdraw federal pension grants.

Dispute in Arkansas. The senatorial campaign in Arkansas has produced a dispute as to whether Senator Caraway received the President's endorsement for renomination. Mr. Roosevelt referred to her during his trans-continental tour as a "very old friend of mine," but Representative John L. McClellan, one of Mrs. Caraway's opponents, contended this was no endorsement.

The only one of tomorrow's primaries in which no senatorial contest is involved is that in Nebraska. Voters in that state will nominate candidates for Governor and for five seats in the national house of representatives.

HOW INDUSTRIAL TAXATION HURTS

A recent analysis of 150 leading corporations in the United States indicates that American industry, as a whole, paid out 34 per cent more in taxes in 1937 than was distributed in dividends to common stockholders. In view of the fact there are approximately 500,000 corporations doing business in the nation, whose individual stockholders approximate 8,000,000, it is obvious upon whose shoulders much of the burden of industrial taxation eventually fall. Of these 8,000,000 owners, 2,000,000 are employees holding stock in the corporations which employ them.

Since 1930 the number of stockholders in American corporations has doubled. In 1937 the 150 corporations analyzed paid more than twice as much in taxes as in 1932. Taxes, in 1937, equaled $2.62 per share against only $1.95 per share distributed in dividends. The number of stockholders, as well as the tax burden on their investments, continues to increase. And there are already twice as many stockholders as employees in the 150 corporations under discussion. The load can be better understood when it is realized taxes paid by these corporations in 1937 averaged $291 for each stockholder and $514 for every employee.

Such facts indicate that millions of the average people of the nation—stockholders and employees alike, being the same in 2,000,000 cases—are vitally interested in the success of American industry. Although spoken of in some quarters as if it were a handicap to the people as a whole, business, on a profitable basis, is the most important factor to the nation's welfare.

When business suffers from an oppressive, burdensome load of taxation, the effects now fall directly and most heavily upon the people. Of course the people have always carried the burden of increased costs of production. It was simply passed on to them in increased retail prices. It is still passed on, but the present day buyer, in millions of instances, is also the stockholder. He gets a double dose.

DOLLAR DEVALUATION

Europe continues to hear the rumor that the dollar will be further devalued, while Washington continues to staunchly deny any move of this type is contemplated. The argument advanced in Europe is simple: That the United States budget is chronically unbalanced and devaluation inevitable over the longer period simply because it would ease the debt situation.

Logical as this explanation may seem, it is not reconcilable with the attitude of Washington authorities toward the debt. Paradoxically, official concern over the total of the indebtedness drops in ratio to its size. Within the next 12 months it is probable the national debt will top the $40,000,000,000 mark, yet Treasury heads regard the mounting total with equanimity, since there is, as yet, no indication that the fountain of cash available to the government will dry up. Every loan is snapped up quickly and heavily over-subscribed by financial institutions at interest rates which several years ago would have been considered fantastically low. The Treasury also has available a new fund source that will become increasingly fruitful in the years to come—social security and unemployment insurance taxes.

The real cause for worry seems not to be in any threat of devaluation, but in this very ease with which the government is able to secure money seeking a safe haven in a day of storms and alarms. The sums being poured into federal coffers at the slightest request are funds which in the normal course of events would be plowed into private business and industry, bolstering and increasing productive employment and swelling the national income in a healthy manner rather than by a process akin to blood transfusion.

The real solution will not be devaluation, which would be but a further step toward chaos, but a restoration of the flow of capital into business and away from top-heavy governmental expenditures, a shift which requires first a restoration of confidence and not the creation of succeeding "No. 1 Economic Problems."

ANGLO-AMERICAN NEGOTIATIONS LAG

Although the importance of concluding the pending trade agreement between the two greatest trading nations in the world, Great Britain and the United States, is paramount, the negotiations are lagging. British representatives in Washington have found it necessary to seek instructions from London because American negotiators refuse to make concessions in several important categories. Seemingly, the stage has been reached when word from London is the only hope of bringing the talks to a successful and satisfactory conclusion.

It was known in advance no prompt agreement was possible, even if desirable. There are too many conflicting, as well as mutual, interests between the two nations. A quick agreement would have given the conference an air of desperation in the face of world aggression. A discussion of concessions on Australian wool is the chief present obstacle to a prompt conclusion. The Australians insist that the United States must grant concessions on this raw product in return for British concessions to American manufacturers. The general decrease in exports from Australia has placed that commonwealth in a position where relief is most desirable.

But the American angle seems to be that mere tariffs and trade are of minor importance. If such is to be the dominating reason for the conference, it is felt it would be better to have no agreement at all. The negotiators feel they have the opportunity to smash the whole system of nationalistic self-sufficiency which has taken possession of the world within recent years. They want to restore commerce to its natural place among the nations. Unless this is put forth as the main objective, it is felt the negotiations will have been almost useless. Although now lagging over one of the not unexpected difficulties, it is felt the disagreement can be smoothed over despite the delicacy of the situation. The outlook for a comprehensive agreement is still good, although a general compromise will be made all around to maintain an accord. The importance of an accord is not to be minimized. It is not to be doubted both London and Washington will assume an attitude of compromise, if necessary, to bring it about, particularly in the face of present world conditions. A general disagreement is unthinkable.

LET US BE FAIR

The natural dislike of a democracy for life under Nazi rule sometimes finds expression in ridiculously strange prejudice. A recent news picture from Breslau, Germany, showed bare-chested youths, marching in formation, carrying heavy pieces of timber across their shoulders. Trimmed and smoothed logs. The descriptive lines beneath the picture, when published in a local newspaper, described the logs as "wooden guns," and said the youths are "labor service men," parading with "tree stumps as arms," at a Silesian sports festival.

The description may be accurate. However, followers of sport know there is a contest, popular especially in Scotland, known as "tossing the caber." And the "caber" is a log, approximately the same size and type as those carried in the picture under discussion. It seems much more probable, especially in view of the fact that the picture was taken at a sports festival, that the marching men were merely exponents of the art of caber tossing, surely an innocent sport, whether as individual competition or mass gymnastics.

There are sufficient grounds of objection to the Nazi idea in government without accusing young men engaged in body-building sport of militaristic activity. It would be fully as logical to accuse a group of baseball players in the United States of tossing a baseball around for practice in the art of throwing hand grenades, with sinister, warlike intent.

A rural New England headline puts unemployment thereabouts at a "high ebb." And lapping the sides of depression's peak, we hear. Something out of the routine in strikes is a walkout of florists at Kitchener, Ont., with little activity reported around the plants.

A question in etiquette now arises out of Russia's contumacious attitude: Does Japan lose face if someone knocks her ears down?

Traffic deaths in the nation are off 25 per cent this year, and no one knows exactly why, unless the driving goof has decimated himself.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT'S AN ARYAN?

(From The Memphis Commercial Appeal)

This being the United States and not Germany, one is free to make a stagger at an honest answer when asked, "What's an Aryan?" The query comes rather frequently because of the absurd insistence of Adolf Hitler and his Nazis that all value and virtue in a human being depend on Aryan ancestry. "Aryan" is a word used most loosely to describe the people who once upon a time developed more than a nomadic state of culture and spread out to populate Europe, India and perhaps parts of North Africa and Asia. The fact is that doctors of ethnology disagree bitterly on practically every point at issue. The word "Caucasian" is employed because somebody once felt the people of that name were probably typical. The fact is, too, that no one knows for certain and everybody guesses.

"Aryans," then, range from fair to dark skin, from fair to dark hair, straight, wavy or curly as the case may be. There is no real uniformity about the types of their skulls, their stature or anything else. It is a puzzle, really, the more fascinating because each expert is able to work out his own variations as to solution and then defend them with many polysyllables and some show of logic. Fascist professors, working under the eagle eye and now expansive facade of Benito Mussolini, have recently concluded, and very tactfully if not very wisely, that Italians are of Aryan origin. This is grease for the Rome-Berlin axis and comparative nonsense otherwise.

Max Muller, the famous Orientalist and comparative philologist and a German, said: "To me an ethnologist who speaks of an Aryan race, Aryan blood, Aryan eyes and hair, is as great a sinner as the linguist who speaks of a dolichocephalic dictionary or a brachycephalic grammar."

In other words, after noting that "xanthochroic" means having a tendency toward yellow hair, that "dolichocephalic" means having a long skull and "brachycephalic" means having a short and excessively broad skull, we can conclude that nobody knows for sure. "Aryan" is a sort of a myth, but one that Herr Hitler has found pretty useful so far.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

PURGE NEATLY CAUGHT GREENVILLE, S. C., Aug. 8.—In this state, the White House is being purged of the democracy appears to be believed, it is possible to deny that, as Edgar Hoover says in an article in Collier's, newspaper reporters sometimes do embarrass the so-called G-men and other police by premature publication of news which tips off criminals that the cops are close. But it is not necessarily true, and Mr. Hoover offers no evidence that the murder of the Levine boy in New Rochelle was caused or hastened by the conduct of the reporter who trapped the child's father into an admission by posing as an agent of the kidnapers in a telephone conversation.

It would seem more likely that in this case and in the Mattson case the criminals never had any intention to return the victims, and killed them as soon as they conveniently could. A captive, living child is a dangerous handicap to a criminal who knows that a murderer adds little if anything to the penalty he has already deserved. Mr. Hoover, who boasts that many of his agents are lawyers and that all of them, himself included, know evidence, makes an emotional accusation against the reporters in these instances, but does not support it with anything that even resembles proof.

Do you want to know something about Mr. Hoover? He is spoiled. The American press has treated him as a sacred cow. His department is still talking about the glorification of criminals long after the press took to glorifying a knife. It was the enterprise of a newspaper that compelled the prosecution of Walter Ward in White Plains after the local authorities had dropped proceedings against the son of a millionaire in a slight case of murder. There have been many such incidents.

As Mr. Hoover has reason to know, the police of Kansas City are the minions of the most corrupt politico-underworld machine that this country has produced since the day in Minneapolis when several of the high-ranking police officials were sent to prison, largely through the enterprise of newspaper reporters, for doing business not merely with prostitutes but with burglars and stickups, as well. Mr. Hoover knows that the Kansas City force is used to protect open gambling and prostitution in places holding the sanction of the organization, and to suppress these activities in places whose operators do not pay their dues.

ON THE STUMP Meanwhile, old Cotton Ed is making the best of his opportunities. Circus politics are his forte, and circus politics go down well here. It may be that Cotton Ed could pull himself out, even without organization backing. He is strong on southern womanhood, higher cotton prices, and the evils of the CIO, which goes down well with the farmers. And he never fails to tell his hearers that the President cherishes a well concealed affection for him. If the voters wanted a sea lion playing the "Star-Spangled Banner" on the clarinet, Cotton Ed would probably do his best to satisfy them.

CAROLINA FEUDISTS Just to make things worse, the state political machine is split wide open between Johnston and Brown. Johnston, originally the favored White House candidate, has the run-of-the-mine state employees. But early in his administration he had such a row with State Highway Commissioner Ben Sawyer that he called out the national guard. Sawyer's highway department controls anywhere up to 40,000 votes, and Sawyer would rather cut off his right hand than help Johnston. He has already told emissaries of the White House that he's for them against Cotton Ed, but for anyone in God's creation against Olin Johnston. His present candidate is Brown. Thus the White House's best chance is for a runoff primary, with Brown as Cotton Ed's opponent. Then some such political fixer as the assistant to the attorney general, astute, genial Joe Keenan, can come down here, tag Jimmy Byrnes into line, concentrate all available strength behind Brown, and perhaps make the purge stick. If Johnston should run second, Sawyer will be an obstacle. But it may be that such inducements as the White House can offer, plus the argument that at least he will get Johnston out of the state, will persuade the embattled highway commissioner to forget his feud.

TO THE CREDIT I would like to point out, too, that, as Mr. Hoover himself has indicated more than once, there are a lot of crooked police and prosecutors serving crooked politicians in various cities in this country, and that, as he failed to point out, newspaper reporters often have turned up and called irresistible public attention to evidence which local officials were trying to ignore or were too stupid to discover. The Halls-Mills case in New Brunswick, N. J., was so badly handled that it was only in response to the work of reporters that the body of Mrs. Mills was exhumed after some time to reveal the fact that she had been not only shot but almost beheaded by a knife. It was the enterprise of a newspaper that compelled the prosecution of Walter Ward in White Plains after the local authorities had dropped proceedings against the son of a millionaire in a slight case of murder. There have been many such incidents.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

This world is such a lovely place for wherever it is they finally choose to go. And then I suppose there'll be another month of post-mortem discussion. Mention of the little, minor mishaps that are bound to occur. Regrets that so-and-so wasn't there and that such-and-such wasn't done.

And then the calm will descend after the storm. Another married couple will take up that routine of conjugal life that can be so happy and satisfactory—ask me—and living will go along its quiet, pleasant way, once more.

The home will be a place of rest and peace again. But that is probably a couple of months off, before things finally simmer down to the normal.

In the meantime—The groom surely is the lucky one, during the pre-ceremony period, anyway. I'm convinced.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today. From The Constitution of Saturday, August 9, 1913: "New Orleans:—A month-old controversy over whether the painting, September Morn, is art or indecency came to a climax when an art dealer was arrested for displaying the picture in his windows."

And Fifty Years Ago. From The Constitution of Thursday, August 9, 1888: "The Duke of Marlborough and his wife went through another marriage ceremony at the London registrar's office."

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

WHAT IS BEST? I meet with people every day who have great heaviness of heart because their desires have turned to ashes in their hands. They wanted something, or thought they wanted it, and after much striving, often foolish and stubborn striving, they achieve this or that thing, only to discover that it was not what they wanted after all. Do you recall the old fable:

"There once was a king, so the minstrels sing, who a herd of elephants had. And a peasant poor who lived next door, who wanted an elephant bad. Now, this generous king did a foolish thing when he gave that peasant one."

For sky blue ruin at once began brewing for that luckless son-of-a-gun; For the elephant ate all night and the elephant ate all day And every cent of his earnings went to keep the beast in hay.

So he tore his hair in wild despair and piped his lachrymal ditty. And cursed the whim that saddled him with an elephant on his hands."

Careful examination of our desires, even our prayers, would bring us quickly to see how much poorer we would be in many instances, if we got what we think we want. Thus we have the Christian philosophy of prayer, which teaches us always to say, "Not my will, but Thine be done."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Accusation NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—It is impossible to deny that, as Edgar Hoover says in an article in Collier's, newspaper reporters sometimes do embarrass the so-called G-men and other police by premature publication of news which tips off criminals that the cops are close. But it is not necessarily true, and Mr. Hoover offers no evidence that the murder of the Levine boy in New Rochelle was caused or hastened by the conduct of the reporter who trapped the child's father into an admission by posing as an agent of the kidnapers in a telephone conversation.

It would seem more likely that in this case and in the Mattson case the criminals never had any intention to return the victims, and killed them as soon as they conveniently could. A captive, living child is a dangerous handicap to a criminal who knows that a murderer adds little if anything to the penalty he has already deserved. Mr. Hoover, who boasts that many of his agents are lawyers and that all of them, himself included, know evidence, makes an emotional accusation against the reporters in these instances, but does not support it with anything that even resembles proof.

Do you want to know something about Mr. Hoover? He is spoiled. The American press has treated him as a sacred cow. His department is still talking about the glorification of criminals long after the press took to glorifying a knife. It was the enterprise of a newspaper that compelled the prosecution of Walter Ward in White Plains after the local authorities had dropped proceedings against the son of a millionaire in a slight case of murder. There have been many such incidents.

To the Credit I would like to point out, too, that, as Mr. Hoover himself has indicated more than once, there are a lot of crooked police and prosecutors serving crooked politicians in various cities in this country, and that, as he failed to point out, newspaper reporters often have turned up and called irresistible public attention to evidence which local officials were trying to ignore or were too stupid to discover. The Halls-Mills case in New Brunswick, N. J., was so badly handled that it was only in response to the work of reporters that the body of Mrs. Mills was exhumed after some time to reveal the fact that she had been not only shot but almost beheaded by a knife. It was the enterprise of a newspaper that compelled the prosecution of Walter Ward in White Plains after the local authorities had dropped proceedings against the son of a millionaire in a slight case of murder. There have been many such incidents.

As Mr. Hoover has reason to know, the police of Kansas City are the minions of the most corrupt politico-underworld machine that this country has produced since the day in Minneapolis when several of the high-ranking police officials were sent to prison, largely through the enterprise of newspaper reporters, for doing business not merely with prostitutes but with burglars and stickups, as well. Mr. Hoover knows that the Kansas City force is used to protect open gambling and prostitution in places holding the sanction of the organization, and to suppress these activities in places whose operators do not pay their dues.

Might Be A reporter working on a big crime story in Kansas City cannot reasonably be asked to hold back or totally suppress news-evidence on the representation of such police that premature publication would be embarrassing. The police might be trying to cover up a pet criminal. Mr. Hoover has had experience with the Kansas City police. He knows that the same is true of much of rural Missouri and rural Indiana, and it has not been long since his own boss, Homer Cummings, was moved to say, apropos several inside jobs in the St. Paul police department that there was something rotten in St. Paul.

He seems to need reminding, too, that his own bureau, the F. B. I., during his own service in the same, has been guilty of crooked work, with particular reference to the Harding era, when Gaston Means was a G-man and William J. Burns was chief.

I divide Mr. Hoover's complaint against reporters by the significant fact that in his personal association with members of the craft his instinct has selected for his special crony and press agent one who is notorious throughout the newspaper business as a louse in the blouse of American journalism.

A Visiting Swede Learns About The Strange Customs of America

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The visitor from Sweden, most civilized of nations, was touring America in company of a native guide. The two came to a fact where men with stones were knocking out windows.

"Isn't that unlawful?" asked the visitor.

"It is," said the guide, "when only one person does it. But the are men who work in the factory and they are angry at the boss. Isn't that destruction rather expensive?"

"Yes, it will cost thousands of dollars to repair the damage."

"Who pays for it?"

"It is added to the cost of production and paid for by people called consumers."

"But if these consumers must pay for it, why don't they interfere and stop it?"

"They have no authority. Anyway, it would just start a fight. I see men fighting over there now, using baseball bats and iron rods and stones. Are they consumers?"

"No," said the guide, "they are workers. Some of them wish work and some wish to stop working, so they fight."

"But in my country," said the visitor, "it is unlawful to fight especially with weapons. If two men begin to fight, the other arrests them and takes them to jail. Isn't it unlawful to fight in that over here?"

"Well, yes," the guide answered. "If two men fight, office stop it. But it's different when many men fight—especially if they are workers."

"But why?" asked the visitor.

"Well, these workers are voters and officials are politicians. Any official would rather monkey with dynamite than with workers. You see, any interference with workers is called tyranny suppression of the working class."

"Couldn't your government settle these things and prevent loss of work and destruction of property, and benefit everybody concerned?"

"Maybe so," said the guide. "It hasn't been tried. The government just keeps hands off and tells them to fight it out. That called freedom."

"But look here," protested the visitor. "Your country is supposed to believe in peace. Aren't your big men forever trying stop warfare?"

"But aren't your statesmen unfair," the visitor insisted, "to provide courts of justice and equity for everybody else and make the workers and employers solve their problem by force?"

"Nothing is unfair to a politician," said the guide, "if it spurs him the agony of monkeyin' with dynamite."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

Support For The 'Purge' By Roosevelt The mail is interesting. Some of it supports the President in his course, justifying his entry into state politics.

From an attorney, and a successful one who dwells in a city near Atlanta, comes a letter from which I quote the following paragraph: "I think you make too much of Senator George's progressiveness and do not get the real distinction in his supporting some of the revenue measures and ministerial matters (if this is the right word) and the matters involving a change in the interpretation of the constitution and a broadening of federal activities and efforts to spread the national income to the lower levels. All these Senator George has been an uncompromising opponent of. In other words, Senator George is a strict constructionist of the Constitution of the United States, and in so doing he represents the traditional view of the south. This, it seems to me, is untenable and has cost the south untold billions of much suffering. For him to be in the senate at this time and support men like Bailey, of North Carolina, is a calamity, I think, and he by all means ought to be gotten out. While I think Talmadge would be unsufferably bad, he would not have much influence in Washington and would not do as much harm to Georgia as George."

From an Atlanta address I select: "No Georgians have resentment against Roosevelt because of the Georgia purge except the newspapermen of the state. When Wilson purged Hardwick with Harris, nobody objected except Tom Watson. George is not independent. He is subservient to the Republican party. You and other writers are unfair to Roosevelt and Jefferson. Tom Watson, et al."

Those are two views from the other side. There are, of course, more who write from the opposing viewpoint.

George Is, of Course, a Constitutionalist What is what attracts him to the conservative people of the state. Whether strict interpretation of the constitution is considered a virtue or a liability, will be determined by the voters in September.

Lawrence Camp is committed to vote for every measure submitted by the administration regardless of his own thoughts on them.

Eugene Talmadge probably is as strict an interpreter of the constitution as is Senator George. William McRae is probably a middle-of-the-roader and would vote for many of the New Deal measures.

George, striking out yesterday in his speech in Habersham county from the Clarksville courtroom where they retreated because of the threat of rain, defended his course.

He reminded his audience he had opposed the President when the President had vetoed a reduction in interest rates for the farmers with mortgages; that he had opposed the President when the President vetoed the solid presence in state politics. It is the supreme court that he has opposed the anti-lynching bill because it clearly was unconstitutional and destroyed local government.

He is a conservative, he is constitutionalist, he is independent enough; that he had conservative though the whole party vote otherwise.

As for the second protest, which is a fair sample of that type protest, it is of course not true that newspaper writers are the ones who resent the President's presence in state politics. It is definitely resented by most of the conservative people of Georgia.

Is the Georgia Farmer Still a Conservative? Whether will be in the fall primary is a question a lot of politicians would like answered.

Yesterday at Clarksville the was no apparent Camp or McGill strength. The majority of the crowd, and it was an excellent one, wore George buttons.

There were a few, probably who were showing their red suspenders or wearing old campaign buttons carrying the picture of a man from Sugar Creek. A few argued the issue on the square.

The senatorial race remains to only one which seems to have aroused any interest. Rivers generally is believed the easy winner. Meanwhile, of course, the state awaits the President.

Barkley's election was by a majority the senator expected to receive even without the President's support. It gives no indication of what may be expected in Georgia.

The liberal voters of Georgia will vote for Camp, believe George to be a reactionary.

The answer lies with the farm of Georgia—is he still a conservative—still a strict interpreter of the constitution?

Roosevelt Precedent If the Democratic party should not be disposed to go along with Mr. Roosevelt and nominate him for a third term, and if he should feel that he should be in the White House until his objective are nearer of realization, there is nothing to prevent him from campaigning under a different label. Roosevelt the first did.

No President has been compared to Andrew Jackson, the founder of the Democrat party more often than F. D. R. Jackson was elected President first a Republican! Jackson's nomination to his second term, 1835 year, is synonymous with the birth of the Democratic party.

ATE UNJUST FIFTH DISTRICT

Editor Constitution: A congressional district in all states of the Union is simply a collection of counties whose total population is intended to be equal to that of other congressional districts for representation by one member in the United States Congress.

The same general plan is followed in local political divisions of the state in counties, members of the state legislature. There are congressional districts in Georgia whose counties, populations and number of members in the state legislature is:

First, 18 counties, 328,214 population, 36 members in legislature; Second, 14 counties, 243,406 population, 28 members in legislature; Third, 24 counties, 334,816 population, 48 members in legislature; Fourth, 15 counties, 261,824 population, 30 members in legislature; Fifth, 3 counties, 412,745 population, 15 members in legislature; Sixth, 15 counties, 261,824 population, 30 members in legislature; Seventh, 14 counties, 293,526 population, 28 members in legislature; Eighth, 20 counties, 241,939 population, 40 members in legislature; Ninth, 18 counties, 206,756 population, 36 members in legislature; Tenth, 17 counties, 280,267 population, 34 members in legislature.

The fifth congressional district, in which Atlanta is situated, not only has fewer members in the state legislature than any other district, it also pays more taxes than any other district and has more inhabitants than any other district. Is this great discrimination allowed to exist?

Many counties are allowed to have members in the state legislature who represent fewer people and pay much less taxes to the state than any ward of the city of Atlanta.

Ladies, We Give You the 'Snood,' Latest in Chapeaux

Doll-Size Headgear To Touch Eyebrows, Stylists Here Reveal.

By AL HAILEY.

Women's hats are moving forward this fall—in fact down over the eyebrows.

The trend, Atlanta's wholesale manufacturers revealed yesterday, is to push the hat as close as possible to the bridge of the nose, fit a gadget called a "snood" over the back of the head and hope for the best.

Local manufacturers and distributors yesterday were previewing the styles of the new feminine headgear in preparation for the seventh semi-annual fall style and market week here August 15-19.

This year it's everything from the "mid-Victorian bonnet to the ever youthful beret" in women's hats. But gone are the sweeping brims—the hats of next fall are doll size.

Attractive Atlanta girls were conscripted by local manufacturers yesterday to model the new hats. Despite all the acrobatics in getting the hats on, the girls achieved good effects and even won cheers of approval from the curious sales who had stopped to watch the process.

"The 'Snood' is Catchy. Catchy thing about the new headgear is the 'snood.' It may resemble a net or just a plain safety belt designed to keep the hat on. And while it might take a couple of looks to find the hat, the 'snood' is there in plain sight.

A woman buyer from an Atlanta department store described the new hats as "simply thrills."

A look around various manufacturing houses indicated the women are going in for a lot of thrills this fall. There were long rows of stands on which were perched nothing but the doll size hats.

"They show many new versions of old favorites with ostrich effects concealing curls," this buyer went on. "They are literally doll size with crowns and brims which seem even smaller than they are because they are turned up sharply all around."

Another feature, she said, is the "snood on the miniature crown which helps to keep the hat on securely and also to keep the curls snugly in place." Then she announced:

Some With Veils.

"The purpose is defeated unless the hat is tilted extremely forward to the bridge of the nose, the eyebrows entirely covered."

Some of the hat stylists have gone even farther than the doll size hat and insist on veils which tie tightly under the chin, obtaining the "ever flattering effect," the buyer explained.

"The mid-Victorian bonnets are marvelously accepted," she continued. "Another repeated fashion that has been favored and taken from the gay 90's is the lovely little tricorn flatterer to young as well as older women."

The new headgear will be modeled during next week's style previews for approximately 3,000 buyers from seven southeastern states arriving to take a look and place their orders.

Members of the Atlanta Manufacturers and Distributors' Association

Here's the "ostrich effect" in the new hats women are going to wear next fall. Maxine Varner, of 718 Oakland avenue, modeled the hat yesterday as Atlanta manufacturers previewed the hat styles in preparation for the fall style and market week August 15-19.

There's a gadget seemingly modeled after a safety belt that holds this "doll size" hat on. It's the newest thing in hats and most of them are supposed to get down to the bridge of the nose, hiding the eyebrows. Martha Frost, of 2640 Peachtree road, shows how the thing stays on.

Ruth Byrne, of 936 Juniper street, wears the new type of feminine headgear with a veil tied under the chin. Unlike the doll hats, this one just goes right on top of the head and depends on the veil for the smart effect.

This is another of those doll hats. A buyer said the purpose is defeated unless it is tilted extremely forward to the bridge of the nose. Dorothy Leonard, of 1018 Stewart avenue, models the hat. Next fall the gals are going in for these hats for the season, stylists say.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Every time I come to town The boys keep kickin' my dog around! It makes no difference if he is a hound, They gotter quit kicking my dog around."

Abolition of the famous two-thirds rule for making nominations at Democratic national conventions has stripped the south of power in the only political party it knows, they say. But what has really stripped the south of power is the party's own success, the new strength it has gathered in other than southern states and the relative decrease in the southern proportion. A two-thirds rule wouldn't be of much use now to a south against the remainder of a party grown so large. The only hope would seem to be in alliance of some sort.

As a matter of fact, the rule never has been of much use to the south, except in theory and as a threat. It did not enable the south to prevent the nomination of Al Smith at Houston in 1928. And at Madison Square Garden in 1924 it prevented the nomination of McAdoo, who was the south's choice. The rule was responsible for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson over Champ Clark at Baltimore in 1912, true, and Wilson was a southerner by birth. But he was not particularly identified with this region at the time and hardly its favorite.

Champ Clark's son and secretary, Bennett, now senator from Missouri, was a Clark floor leader at that Baltimore convention. He saw his father's shining hopes of the White House die there to the tune of "They Gotter Quit Kickin' My Dog Around" when the two-thirds rule made the Clark majority insufficient and when William Jennings Bryan shifted his vote. The Clarks never forgave Bryan. And Bennett never forgot what the two-thirds rule had done to his father. That was the memory and the drama behind the scene on the evening of Thursday, June 25, 1936, when the permanent chairman, Joe Robinson, of the Democratic national convention, recognized Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, chairman of the committee on rules, and when Senator Clark, reporting for the committee, offered its resolution that "all questions, including the question of nominations for candidates for President of the United States, shall be determined by a majority vote of the delegates... and the rule heretofore existing... requiring a two-thirds vote in such cases is hereby specifically abrogated."

When the eyes had it on that resolution, it is easy to imagine Bennett Clark saluting the departed spirit of his father, of the great Champ Clark who might have been President if it had not been for the rule now abolished.

That Champ Clark would have been elected in 1912 if he had been the Democratic nominee is probable but not certain. It was the year of Teddy Roosevelt's break with Taft and formation of the Progressive Bull Moose party. Woodrow Wilson was easily as progressive as T. R., and it turned out to be a progressive year. If Clark, who was no particular progressive, had been nominated, many progressive votes that went to Wilson would have gone instead to Roosevelt, possibly enough to win for him. It was the great Teddy's son, Kermit, we believe, who, when he heard the results of the Democratic convention, commented significantly, "Pop was praying for Clark."

The same vote which abolished the two-thirds rule in 1936 instructed the Democratic national committee to devise an improved system of apportioning delegates to national conventions and to "take into account the Democratic strength within each state and territory in making such apportionment." This with a view to offsetting for the south the advantage supposed to have been lost with the two-thirds rule, since Democracy is strongest in southern states. If length of party loyalty and size of party majority are taken into consideration in devising this improved system, the south may indeed hope for more representation.

AAA MAILS CARDS FOR COTTON SALES

Certificates Are Issued to Farmers Whose Acreage Conforms to Allotments.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has started mailing cotton marketing cards to farmers whose acreage was found within the total allotted them under the federal farm program.

Officials said growers in south Georgia, where cotton picking has begun, should receive their cards by tomorrow. Growers in the other counties will receive their cards later.

The cards are certificates issued to farmers whose acreage has been measured and found to be within allotments. The cards permit sale of cotton without penalty.

Red cards will go to those growers who have overplanted, but it will be several days before these are ready, AAA officials said. More time is needed to calculate the amount of cotton that may be sold from each farm without penalty.

A tax of 2 cents a pound will be assessed on cotton produced on the acres in excess of the allotted acres.

ATLANTAN IS INJURED BY CAROLINAN'S AUTO

J. S. Pannell, 44, of 1368 LaFrance street, N. E., was in "poor" condition last night in Grady hospital, the result of injuries sustained when he was struck yesterday by an automobile driven by W. M. Heath, 18, of Burlington, N. C., in front of 1221 Lee street, S. W. He sustained a compound fracture of the right leg, a broken right arm, and severe head lacerations. No case was booked against Heath.

OFFICIAL OF TWOC CHARGES KIDNAPING

Witherspoon Dodge Says His Life Threatened in Fitzgerald.

FITZGERALD, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Witherspoon Dodge, southern representative of the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee, appealed to Sheriff J. V. Griner for protection tonight and told of threats to his life by a group of 10 men who allegedly kidnaped him from the porch of his hotel.

Dodge said the men struck him over the head and forced him into a truck. He was carried about four miles into the country, he said, where he was pushed to the roadside with the warning that he would be shot if he did not leave Fitzgerald at once.

Dodge said he was in the south Georgia town negotiating for the TWOC for a contract with the Fitzgerald mills.

He said he had been only slightly hurt, and planned to remain in Fitzgerald despite the threats. He added R. R. Lawrence, regional director of the CIO had ordered him to swear out charges against several men whom he recognized.

FARM DELEGATES ARRIVE IN ATHENS

Thousands Converge on City for Opening of Programs at University.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Thousands of Georgia's rural residents converged on Athens today for the beginning of the annual farm and home week programs, which began tonight and will continue through Friday.

Most of today was taken up with registration of delegates to the general sessions, the women's programs and 4-H Club programs.

The delegates were welcomed tonight by Director Walter S. Brown, of the Agricultural Extension Service, who spoke once to the women and once to the 4-H clubbers; Dean Paul Chapman, of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture, and Dean R. H. Powell, of the co-ordinate college.

The remainder of the program tonight was rounded out with a vesper service led by the Rev. C. G. Fullerton, assistant pastor of the First Methodist church of Athens, and an organization meeting, presided over by Mrs. H. G. Wiley, of Cordele, president of the state home demonstration council.

Earlier today, a luncheon was held in honor of experts who will conduct the annual poultry short course, which opens tomorrow.

Women in Dormitories. The women are being housed on the co-ordinate college campus, two miles from the main university campus, and where freshmen and sophomore girls live during the regular term. The 4-H Club girls were housed in Soule hall on the college of agriculture campus, and the boys at Camp Wilkins, a low-cost men's dormitory.

Provision was also made at Camp Wilkins to register the farmers themselves, but university officials have learned most Georgia farmers prefer to come to town only for a day or a particular program, as they are usually busy with crops at this season of the year.

The women's meetings are under the supervision of Miss Lurline Collier, state home demonstration agent. She is being assisted by Miss Rosa McGee and Mrs. Margaret Brand, of Tifton, and Miss Lila Edwards and Miss Alice Drake, of Athens, extension service women district agents.

Heading tomorrow's activities is the community entertainment contest, in which four communities, one from each major section of the state, will compete for statewide honors and substantial prizes. Community winners from Carroll, Laurens, Worth and Hancock counties are the competitors.

Today's Speakers. The program, according to a late announcement today, will be held in Woodruff hall instead of Sanford stadium, due to inclement weather.

Speaking on the first health conference, which opens in Pound auditorium at 9:50 o'clock tomorrow morning, are Dr. Thomas Morgan, medical consultant, children's bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., and Dr. A. S. Edwards, head of the psychology department, University of Georgia.

Mrs. S. C. Wallis, of Carroll county, chairman, nutrition department, state home demonstration council, and Mrs. Edgar Hatley, of Washington county, chairman of the child development and family life department, state home demonstration council, will preside over the health conferences.

COLONEL WHEELER RITES IN ARLINGTON

Son of Gray Soldier Buried With Honors.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Funeral services for Colonel Joseph Wheeler Jr., 66, son of the Confederate cavalry leader "Fighting Joe" Wheeler, were held this afternoon in Arlington National cemetery.

Colonel Wheeler died Saturday at his home in Wheeler, Ala., his birthplace.

Lieutenant Colonel Ora J. Cohee, chaplain, officiated at the services held from the Fort Myer gate. Burial with full military honors was in the eastern section.

BERLIN-TO-U. S. FLIGHT DELAYED FOR BALBO

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The projected flight of a Focke Wulf airplane from Berlin to New York was postponed today until next week-end to permit Marshal Italo Balbo, governor of Italian Libya, to witness the takeoff.

Balbo, who led a trans-Atlantic flight of 24 Italian planes from Odbello, Italy, to Chicago in 1933, is scheduled to arrive tomorrow for a visit of several days at the invitation of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

UNION LEADER SLAIN BY TRIO OF GUNMEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—(UP)—James Dungan, 38, a painters' union official, was wounded fatally tonight by at least three gunmen who shot him as he stood on the front steps of his home on Chicago's South Side.

Dungan fell with three bullets in his head and one in his neck. He was rushed to St. Paul's hospital by neighbors who witnessed the shooting and died two hours later.

HEAVY RAINS DAMAGE COTTON AND TOBACCO

WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 8.—Continued heavy rains of the last several weeks have inflicted damage on cotton fields in the Waycross area, and are reported to be proving a severe handicap in the marketing of tobacco. Thousands of pounds of tobacco suffered damage last week while being brought to the Waycross market.

The Satilla river is out of its banks and creeks are flooded.

LANIER FACES JURY IN DAUGHTRY CASE

Star State Witness Retells Story, Explains Retraction of Evidence.

SYLVANIA, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Aaron Nelson, star witness in the state's case against seven accused of slaying wealthy Charlie Daughtry, retold from the witness stand today the story which already has brought one life sentence.

The negro, testifying in the trial of Lonnie Lanier, reiterated testimony which contributed to the conviction of John Burns and explained from the stand his out-of-court retraction of this evidence.

Nelson was indicted along with Burns, Lanier and Osborne Newton in the killing of the Rocky Ford planter, found shot to death last September 24 in his automobile on the edge of a swamp near his home. Albert Cobb, Savannah attorney; Joe Newton, Bloomingdale merchant, and Ralph Newton, his son, were named in indictments returned last week.

Tells of Fatal Ride. The negro said he was hired by Burns, Lanier and Osborne Newton to ride the bumper of Daughtry's car when the land owner drove away from a country store on September 22. Nelson said he left the car as it approached a spot where the three defendants waited, this being a signal Daughtry was alone.

The negro said an automobile containing the accused then rolled into the roadway just ahead of Daughtry's car and he heard shots a few minutes later from the direction both vehicles had gone.

Under cross-examination by Defense Counsel Frank Brant, Nelson said he did not send for Judge T. J. Evans to give him an affidavit repudiating the testimony against Burns. He said Osborne Newton sent for Evans.

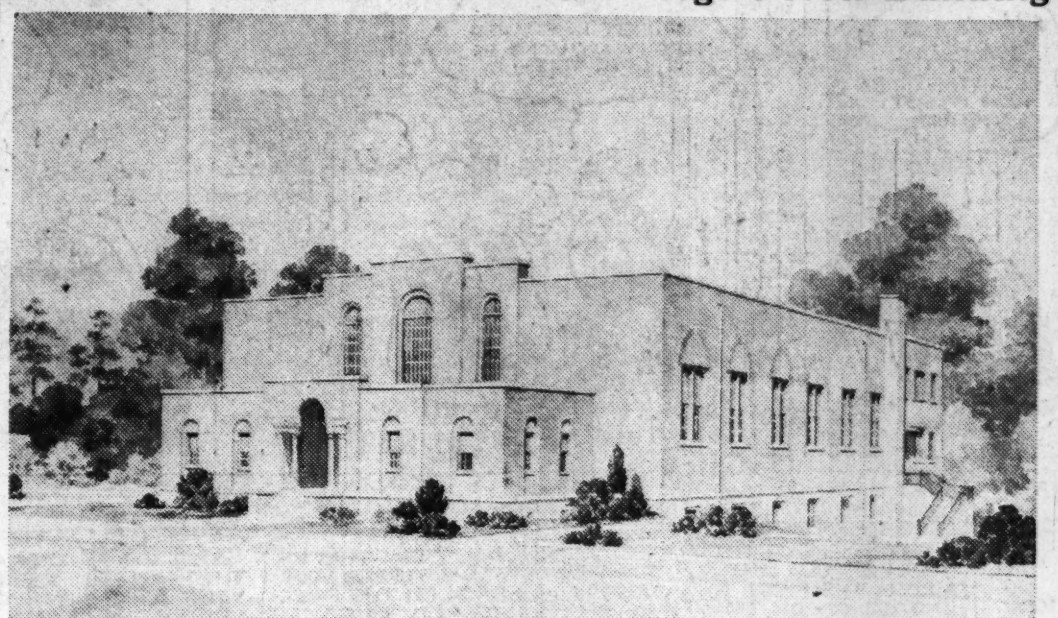

The negro admitted repudiating his testimony, but said he did it "because Osborne Newton told me if I did not change my story I could get the electric chair and my eyes would pop out."

Immediately after this repudiation was reported, Solicitor W. C. Neville had Nelson transferred to the Statesboro jail and announced next day the prisoner had reaffirmed his original story, claiming he was frightened into the repudiating affidavit.

Lanier and Osborne Newton were called to trial together this morning, but defense counsel obtained a severance and indicated separate trial would be asked for each defendant.

Architect Pictures Americus College's New Building

Here is how Georgia Southwestern College's new $47,250 auditorium-gymnasium will look when completed, according to the architect. The Americus project is among three on which bids will be asked August 22 by the board of regents at the state capitol. The other two are a $45,000 dining hall at Georgia Southwestern, and a $75,000 classroom-clinic structure at the University of Georgia School of Medicine at Augusta.

CAMPAIGN GROUP TO SEEK POWERS

Would Move Against Violators of Corrupt Practices Act in Primaries.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Chairman Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, said today the senate campaign expenditures committee would recommend to the next congress that it be given wider powers to deal with alleged irregularities in primary campaigns.

A constitutional amendment may be necessary, he said, to give a senate committee direct power to proceed against violators of the corrupt practices act in primaries.

The senator recalled that the supreme court, in the Newberry case in 1924, decided that primaries were a state matter and that the senate could not interfere.

Sheppard expressed the personal view that the same result might be accomplished more quickly if congress re-enacted the corrupt practices act, strengthening the senate's authority to inquire into the actions of primary candidates.

The issue also might be redefined if the senate cited some candidate for contempt for refusing to comply with committee demands, he declared. He said there was some reason to believe that the five-to-four decision of the supreme court in the Newberry case might be reversed by the present court.

Prison Chaplain Also To Direct Baseball, Boxing

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Tattnall prison is to have a ball-playing chaplain.

The Rev. James Agee, of Waycross, newly appointed as chaplain of the huge penal institution here, has disclosed he plans to be an athlete as well as spiritual advisor to the convicts.

Besides religious services with the regular hours of worship, assistance with family contacts and individual cheer of the men, the young chaplain plans to direct baseball, handball, boxing and other sports.

He has also launched plans for a prison library which, with the assistance of the Georgia Library Association, he hopes to bring to 10,000 volumes by the end of September.

What happens WHEN MARRIAGE IS BASED ON PHYSICAL ATTRACTION?

Book-Length True Story of an "Infatuation Marriage"

"MY FIRST meeting with Adrian Carr was like an emotional explosion." Thus begins one of the most moving human documents we ever published—the personal, true life story of a man who married a girl whose physical appeal he couldn't resist.

Somehow, deep down within him, he knew she was not the right girl for him. His vision and hers, of what constituted a happy life, were so very far apart. But he wanted her—couldn't live without her.

So they were married, and—

Like two corks caught up in the boiling current of a swift stream, these two rushed headlong through an amazing succession of events. You'll never guess the outcome; you must read every vivid, throbbing chapter of "I COULDN'T LIVE WITHOUT HER."

The whole compelling story from the first explosive meeting to the final crashing climax appears as a book-length feature in the big, new September issue of True Story magazine, out today. And it is only one of the many gripping true stories and special features contained in this unique, stranger-than-fiction magazine.

"Lonely Wife"—"Because I Knew His Secret"—"The Woman Who Broke Up My Home"—"My Mother's Past"—these are some of the absorbing stories taken straight from life—stories in which real men and women face the real problems of human existence—stories in which you will see your friends, your relatives, yourself. The Man Mountain Quits Political Ring

Getting out of politics before he "slugs" somebody, Frank S. Leavitt better known as Man Mountain Dean, Norcross (Ga.) farmer, yesterday announced he has withdrawn as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from Gwinnett county.

"If I stay in politics, I'll slug somebody sure," declared the wrestler, who returned Sunday night from Hollywood, where he had worked in the film, "The Gladiator."

"When a wrestler gets personal in the ring, I slug him," but if I tried that on some of the politicians talking about me I'd land in jail and be sued for all I own."

Just beyond the gymnasium is the site where there will be constructed this fall a $35,000 classroom building, the work to be done by WPA. The paved streets over which the chief executive will ride are another dream of Barnesville citizens which was realized through governmental agencies.

Plans are progressing rapidly for the reception of President Roosevelt here this week. Harvey J. Kennedy, chairman of the program committee, announced today the appointment of J. A. Cason, mayor of Barnesville, as chairman of the reception committee, with Mrs. Walter B. Smith, as co-chairman. Mayor Cason will ride in the presidential car from the railway station to the stadium.

A 21-gun salute will be accorded the chief executive when he steps from his train by Company G, 29th infantry, attached to Fort Benning, it was announced, and the parade will be led through the streets of this town by the regimental band, which, with the Georgia State Girls' band, of Atlanta, will render alternate programs in the park adjoining the stadium all morning.

Preparations are being made to decorate the town in gay colors for the occasion and already many establishments have been hung with the national colors and with bunting from the banners. The business interests of the town will observe a partial holiday, all mills closing at noon.

R. G. Daniell, Candler county farmer, is to speak for the senator at 8 p. m. (E. S. T.) over station WMAZ at Macon.

F. B. McDonald, of Waycross, will speak over WAXY, Waycross station, from 8 to 8:15 (E. S. T.).

W. T. Gary, Augusta attorney and president of the Richmond County George Club, will speak over WRDW in Augusta from 8 to 8:15 (E. S. T.).

THREE ARE ARRESTED IN RAID ON DISTILLERY

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 8. Two white men, listed by Sheriff J. P. Mason as Richard Gilbert and Robert Harrington, and a negro helper who gave his name as Robert Walters, were at liberty under bond today following their arrest by county and federal officers in a raid on an illicit distillery near Suwanee yesterday.

Sheriff Mason, who was accompanied by Deputy J. D. Teague and J. E. Rowles, W. N. Lanford and H. O. Reed, federal officers, said approximately 3,000 gallons of mash was found and destroyed with the distillery equipment.

The three men arrested gave bond for their appearance in Gwinnett county superior court at the September term.

TAX REDUCTIONS CLAIMED BY RIVERS

Governor Cites Digests of State in Campaign Address Here.

Governor Rivers last night cited the tax digests of Georgia for the "answer to those who are complaining about 'high taxes.'"

"Every newspaper in Georgia tells the real story about how we are reducing taxes in Georgia," the Governor said.

"Every time you pick up a paper you read where a county reports reductions in its property digests over last year without an increase in the tax rate."

"The tax digests show what we have done to reduce the taxes of the homeowner and the small property holder. We are saving them thousands of dollars in state and county taxes, yet we are increasing their public services and helping the counties by direct grants and increased payments to schools."

"Every county in Georgia has received larger sums for schools under the Rivers administration than ever before and every dollar the state pays our county for support of public services heretofore financed exclusively by the counties makes it possible to reduce the tax on the people."

The Governor was introduced by D. L. Rainey, tax receiver of Schley county, who said: "Governor Rivers has given the people of our county more services and reduced their taxes to a greater extent than any other governor."

Judge Ralph McClelland, secretary of the Fulton County Re-elect Rivers Club, presided.

Figures from the tax digest of Schley county were cited by the Governor as "typical throughout the state, showing how this administration has saved the people money." He showed how each district in the county reported a savings in taxes, resulting in a total reduction under the exemptions $6,018.04.

Benefits Discussed.

Addressing the third of Monday night rallies of his supporters, the Governor discussed the benefits "enjoyed under the homestead and personal property tax exemptions."

"You won't find the small homeowner complaining about 'high taxes,' because he is paying less taxes today than ever before," the Governor said.

"You won't hear the old people grumbling about taxes, nor will you hear complaints from the crippled children, who have been helped by our health program, nor from the patients in state hospitals who are being given better treatment under this administration."

The completion of the small group of property taxes heretofore exempted paying its just share of the expense of government.

"When we took the taxes off the small property owner, we had to put it upon somebody, so we put it upon those who were not being paying their part. The state had to do this, because the wealth of this state, as it is elsewhere, is becoming concentrated and is taking on so many different forms that the local communities cannot reach it."

Tells of Progress.

"When the state, under this administration, for the first time assumed its responsibility and began taxing hidden wealth, we began to make progress toward relieving the small property owner whose home, his household and kitchen furniture had been over-taxed in the past. For the first time we were in a position to help them. And by giving the schools and other public services larger appropriations, for the first time we were able to help the counties finance these necessary services."

"The homestead and personal property tax exemption laws were enacted by the legislature upon demand of the people, who passed upon them favorably in three different elections. The enemies of tax reduction fought us in the Democratic primary in 1936; they fought us in the constitutional amendment elections and they fought us in the legislature. They are still fighting us, but we do not intend to retreat one inch. We are determined to continue the program we have started, because it is giving the people more relief from taxes and more public services than they have ever had."

CANDIDATES DISCUSS CAMPAIGN ISSUES

By the Associated Press.

From the hills of Habersham to the coastal plains county of Pierce, candidates for Georgia's major office campaigned yesterday for votes in the September 14 Democratic primary.

Varied issues were stressed in the stump speaking of the day. Paragraphs of interest included: Clarksville—Senator George, seeking renomination, cited his votes for agricultural and rural electrification measures in an address at this northeast Georgia city.

"I know the problems and hardships of the small farmer," he said. "I know because I was born on a farm, the son of a tenant farmer. I have never forgotten those years and the pride of my life is that I have been able to help make life more livable for the residents of our rural sections."

Washington—William G. McRae, Townsend plan advocate declared the proposed general welfare act embodying the Townsend plan, "deliberately provides against the institution of bureaucracy."

"I believe the paramount need of the nation today is greater, sounder and more liberal laws—not greater and more dominant men."

Franklin—Hugh Howell, Atlanta attorney, seeking the governorship: "Wherever you are they (Governor Rivers' supporters) will tell you that Ed's votes are somewhere else. This can mean but one thing, that the people are against

ROOSEVELT DRAFTS GEORGIA SPEECHES

President's Voyage Ends at Pensacola Today; Arrives Here Thursday.

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, Aug. 8.—(P)—(Via Naval Radio.)—President Roosevelt, nearing the end of his vacation cruise aboard the cruiser Houston, began work today on the two addresses he will deliver in Georgia Thursday.

The Houston late today had less than 250 miles to run before completing its 5,888-mile voyage, which the President started on July 16 and which will end early tomorrow afternoon at Pensacola, Florida.

The President will transfer from the Houston to the destroyer McDougal somewhere in the gulf to facilitate docking.

After a press conference aboard the McDougal (about 5:30 p. m., central standard time), the President will inspect the Pensacola naval air station, motor along a parade route through Pensacola and board his 10-car special train.

The President is expected to deliver a 10-minute address at his train before leaving.

Speeding through Alabama in the early morning hours, he will arrive early Wednesday at Columbus, Ga., and proceed to Warm Springs where he will spend the day.

Leaving Warm Springs early Thursday, Mr. Roosevelt will proceed through Atlanta to Athens, Ga., where he will receive an honorary degree from the University of Georgia.

Retracing his route back to Atlanta, he will go on to Barnesville, for an early afternoon speech dedicating a rural electrification project in Barnesville, Ga.

Coming back through Atlanta again in late afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt will head directly for Washington, arriving there in mid-morning Friday.

The President will stay in Washington several days and then go to his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

F. D. R. NEEDS AID, CAMP DECLARES

Friendly Senators Vital to Program, He Reiterates.

DALLAS, Ga., Aug. 8.—(P)—Lawrence S. Camp declared today the people "cannot expect the national government to serve them unless they elect senators friendly to the champion of their cause, President Roosevelt."

In a senatorial campaign address, he criticized the record of Senator George on the reorganization bill and urged "the President's friends in Georgia" to attend the REA project dedication at Barnesville August 11.

Camp said the "forces of entrenched greed are loudly criticizing a natural desire of the nation's leader for a friendly congress."

"Without a sympathetic majority in the congress, the program planned for the people's benefit cannot be enacted into law."

CANDLEMAKER DIES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(P)—Antonio Ajello, 78, one of the world's leading candlemakers, whose clients included Enrico Caruso, Colonel Charles Lindbergh, Mussolini and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, died today at his home.

Ed Rivers and for Hugh Howell. Pearson—John J. Mangham, Bremer farmer and businessman: "Rivers has spoken for 31 hours on the radio recently and has not yet discussed any of the vital questions in this race."

Highway 42 Offers Safest Route To Barnesville, Motorists Advised

Sullivan Urges Careful Driving by Those Going to Hear Roosevelt.

Motorists planning to drive to Barnesville Thursday to hear President Roosevelt were urged yesterday to follow State Highway 42 through McDonough, Jackson and Forsyth and Route No. 19 from Forsyth to Barnesville by Lon Sullivan, deputy commissioner of public safety.

Sullivan said he wanted to get the message over to drivers to "drive early for Barnesville, drive carefully and not impatiently."

"By using Route 42 motorists only have to drive a few miles further but they will be on a much safer and smoother highway," Sullivan said. He said this route would be preferable to driving over United States Highway No. 41 through Griffin.

State troopers will be stationed in patrol cars every 15 miles on all highways leading into Barnesville for several miles out of the town, he added.

"We had several requests to escort motorists for the day, but we believe there is going to be one big motorcade and that we can do a better job by stationing patrol cars all along the highways," Sullivan said.

He explained that troopers are being posted to keep traffic moving and hinder traffic.

Every available trooper will be assigned to work at dawn Thursday and will work until daylight the following day to clear up highway traffic, if necessary, Sullivan said. He added that this safety drive was put in effect July 4 and that highway fatalities were reduced from 10 on July 4 in the state last year to only three this year.

"One impatient passing by a motorist can cause death or injury to any number of persons," he warned, urging patience on the part of drivers.

door, and handed his gun, a .38 revolver, to Emory Morgan, a clerk. He then ran a short distance up the street, leaned against a wall, and with hands clasped as if in prayer moaned again and again, "I knew I would have to do it."

Taken to police headquarters, the son said, "This is a terrible thing. I never dreamed I would be born to kill my own father."

"I only remember firing two shots. When a fellow sticks a gun in your face, you don't remember everything that happens. We were quarreling. Father jumped to draw his gun, and I beat him to the draw," he said.

Detectives D. L. Taylor and E. I. Hildebrand, who investigated the shooting, said they understood the argument was caused by the father's accusation that the son had been "doing away" with radio equipment from the shop.

The elder Johnston was the father-in-law of Councilman Howard Haire, and made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Haire at 1092 Colquitt avenue, N. E. He had been in the furniture business here for about 35 years. His son lives at 1121 Hardee street, N. E. CONTINUED RAIN FORECAST TODAY

Slight Mercury Rise Also Is Expected.

Continued rain was forecast for Atlanta today by the United States Weather Bureau yesterday, with a slight rise in temperature anticipated. Probable extremes will range from 70 degrees to 85 degrees, George W. Mindling, meteorologist, predicted.

Drenching showers and partly cloudy skies yesterday kept the mercury from reaching an anticipated maximum of 86 degrees, extremes being 70 degrees and 80 degrees. Precipitation was measured at .25 of an inch at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Lookouts Score 5 in 9th To Rout Sunkel, But Crackers Win, 7-5

Armstrong Continues 12-to-5 Favorite for Wednesday Fight

N. Y. BODY RULES WELTER CROWN IS NOT AT STAKE

Ambers Will Claim Henry's Title, However, Should He Win Bout.

By EDDIE BRIETZ.
NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(P)—Henry Armstrong's welterweight title will not be officially on the line when he goes after Lou Ambers' lightweight crown Wednesday night, but Ambers will claim it if he wins decisively and John Q. Public probably will recognize him.

The New York State Athletic Commission was ruled that only the 135-pound diamond will be at stake, but that will make no difference to Manager Al Weill if his "Herkimer Hurricane" does the unexpected and wins.

"We'll wait until Wednesday night and see what happens," Weill said. "If it is a fast, exciting fight and Lou wins by a wide margin, he'll be the welterweight champion in the eyes of the fans who pay the freight and after all that's what will count."

TICKET SALE SLOW.
Meanwhile the advance sale for the 15-round bout in the Polo Grounds got no better rapidly. A brief week-end spurt led Promoter Mike Jacobs to predict that "She'll hit the $100,000 mark sure," but more conservative sources estimated the fight would gross nearer the $80,000 mark.

The advance sale is now $25,000. Betting continued to favor Armstrong at odds of 11 and 12 to 5, with little wagering. A sudden influx of Ambers money late last week was gobbled up rapidly and there has been none since.

It will be one of those unusual occasions in the fight world where the defending champion will enter the ring on the short end of the betting.

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis flew in from Detroit today and was rushed out to Summit to watch Ambers in his final work-out. Joe refused to make a prediction.

SEEKS THIRD TITLE.
The little negro, who will be gunning for his third title in less than a year, took a day off at Pompton Lakes. He failed to impress observers in his last drill Sunday, but was pronounced in tip-top shape by his handlers.

There will be no more hard work in either camp. Ambers and Armstrong will take it easy until time for the weighing-in at noon Wednesday.

While Louis is in town, Jacobs expects to talk with him about plans for a September fight, maybe with Tommy Baer. Max Baer's mother died last night and it is not believed he will fight until the indoor season, anyway.

TEN TROTTERS IN $40,000 RACE

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(P)—The Hambletonian, Kentucky Derby of light-harness horse racing, is expected to draw 10, possibly 12, three-year-old trotters to the post Wednesday for its 13th renewal at Good Time Park.

The owners and trainers have until 11 a. m. tomorrow to decide whether they'll shell out the additional starting fee of $250 for trotting's richest race. However, as the grand circuit meeting opened today, 10 trainers indicated they would have their charges in line when Starter Steve Phillips sends them away at 3 p. m. in the first of the two-out-three heats.

Somehow you can't see young Larry Gilbert stepping out of baseball into business just when he has realized an ambition of playing for his dad in Southern league baseball.

And you can't figure Larry Sr. letting his son step out without an argument when it so happens that he is the best fielding second baseman in the league and a very fine hitter.

When young Larry made an error in the series with the Crackers, it was his first in 26 games. He had handled 159 chances without a boggle.

In fact, has made only six errors in 59 games this season, which gives him a fielding average of .983. Young Gilbert is hitting just a shade under .300 and he is the kind of hitter who is always giving a team trouble. He is the line-drive type. He is good at hitting behind the runner on the hit-and-run.

Every manager seeks a good second baseman. Doc Prothro sought one for years and finally came up with Al Niemic. He lost Niemic and got Leroy Schalk. When Schalk was well the Pebbles were hard to beat.

The Crackers have had a terrible time with second basemen this year. They started out with Al Rubeling and he didn't do. They tried Buster Chatham, Russ Peters, Nig Lipscomb and now Marshall Mauldin at second. The latter, an outfielder, is the best of the bunch.

Lipscomb figured strongly in two pennant drives, but either he has slowed up or there is something else lacking from his form of '35 and '36.

A manager doesn't come up with a smooth second baseman like young Larry Gilbert every season or even every other season.

Gilbert has had his troubles at second base for several seasons. And now that he has his son, a real second baseman and a youngster, on the job, I imagine that between now and next season they may make a business deal relative to the continuance of the son's career at the keystone for the Pelicans.

Young Gilbert served a fine apprenticeship in the Southeastern league to prepare himself for a job with New Orleans.

And when Larry sits down and figures up the averages and thinks about all his troubles at second base, you can almost safely wager that a father-and-son baseball partnership will be renewed next year.

WHAT'S HOLDING HIM UP?
Bill Rodda, one of the real veterans of Southern league baseball, has just completed his 1,000th game of baseball with Nashville.

Rodda, who has been a Nashville infielder for eight consecutive years, reached the 1,000th mark in the first game of a double-header with Little Rock Sunday.

During his years with the Vols, Rodda has played short, second and third. They moved him over to third this season to spare, so they said, his legs. But he has been at second in a number of games. He took a turn at second in the All-Star game.

Look around the Southern league and you'll find that, for hustle and spirit, you can't beat three of the real "old-timers" of the league.

Eddie Rose will knock a fence down any day to catch a fly ball. Andy Reese, of Memphis, has no throwing arm to speak of, but he plays a great game at first base. He really is no first baseman. But because he does not have a good arm, he was moved from second to first. And then there's Rodda.

The only reason why Reese didn't play in the All-Star game was because of an injured hand. He was chosen as the first baseman.

BASEBALL BEGINS AT 60.
Baseball, for Mrs. J. Paul Smith, of 464 Ashby street, West End, began at 60. A friend persuaded her to attend a game at Ponce de Leon and now she wouldn't miss one for anything.

Mrs. Smith was bitten by the baseball bug two years ago and since then she has picked out one certain seat in back of the Cracker dugout. It's a fifth-row aisle seat in Section D.

The lady from West End tells a story about that seat. "One day I arrived to find that a 'big boy' was sitting in my seat. I told him that was my seat. He said he was sorry but it was his."

"So I told him to go ahead and sit there if he insisted; that the Crackers would lose."

"The game went into the ninth inning with the Crackers trailing, 4 to 3. Johnny Hill was coming to bat. The man who had my seat was pretty mad about the score and he got up to leave. I rushed down and got my seat. Johnny Hill got a hit and won the game. I wouldn't have taken anything for that," Mrs. Smith said.

Mrs. Smith said she became educated in baseball through reading the newspapers and listening to the radio. "I enjoy The Constitution baseball features. When I attended my first game I felt I knew through pictures and records each Cracker player personally."

Emil Mailho, the fiery little French right fielder, is one of Mrs. Smith's favorite Crackers, although, as she says, "I like them all."

AUBURN TO MEET.
The Atlanta chapter of Auburn alumni will meet Thursday night at 6:30 at the Athletic Club for a dinner and movies of a couple of last season's games.

Jack Meagher and Porter Grant, of Auburn, will be here for the dinner. President B. S. Gilmer said he thought the pictures will show the Orange Bowl game, in Miami, and the Tech game here.

W. J. McKinney is secretary of the Auburn alumni here and all interested in attending the dinner are asked to get in touch with him at Walnut 5617.

British Pilot Tests Car at 250 M.P.H.
BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 8.—(P)—John Cobb, British race driver, flashed his turtle-shaped car over this lake bed today at 250 miles per hour.

Using only a three-mile strip of salt for a quick getaway, Cobb served notice on the speed world that his new front wheel drive creation is a serious contender for the world's land speed record.

Although the track was in poor condition, the twin-motored power plant surprised even its makers. Designer Reid Railton, of London, was amazed at the 3,500-pound machine's quick pickup.

CROWDER FACES DAYTONA TODAY
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Aug. 8.—(P)—Daytona Beach's All-Stars and the Tubize team, of Rome, Ga., semipro baseball champions of Florida and Georgia, respectively, will cross bats here tomorrow in the third game of their southeastern regional series.

The Tubize club, which won the first two games last week in Rome, is a decided favorite. Buzz Crowder will pitch for Tubize and Wes Rowland for Daytona Beach.

Rajah Finds Job Solution—Buy a Club

They Can't Fire You if You Own the Club, Says Hornsby.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 8.—(P)—Rogers Hornsby, who shouts when others fear to whisper, believes he has the answer to a perplexing question.

The basis of the problem is this: Charley Grimm, who paced the Chicago Cubs to two National league championships, is out of a job.

Black Mike Cochrane, all-time great as a catcher and who as a manager sparked Detroit to two pennants and a world's championship, is a man without a uniform.

The mighty Babe Ruth now is only a coach.

Hornsby, the incomparable batsman and great manager, is directing the seventh place Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern association.

WIN OR LOSE.
"If you lose you get fired—if you win you get fired," asserted the frank Rajah. "Maybe I don't know the answer; maybe I do."

"Maybe you've just got to be a politician."

And Hornsby of the steady eyes and rocky chin didn't smile when he said it.

He wasn't complaining. The Rajah is not given to complaints. He is just as enthusiastic about baseball today as when he was driving his club to a National league pennant. He works just as hard on these coming youngsters and going veterans of the minors as he did on his Cardinal prima donnas. His eyes are just as clear as when he was the scourge of big league pitchers and his sloping shoulders are just as powerful as when their push gave him a 42.4 batting average back in 1924.

SEEKS OWN TEAM.
"I'm down here in the Southern after a lot of years in big time, and I like it," he said. "It's a good place to be. Of course I'd go back to the majors if the right people made me a good offer—if they weren't the right people I wouldn't listen."

"What I hope to do," he continued, "is to own all or part of a club some day—these little clubs like Chattanooga are money makers."

Then the same old salty Rogers: "They can't fire you if you own the club."

CITY SOFTBALL DRAWINGS HELD
Drawings for the 1938 city softball tournament were held at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Sixteen teams, the winners and runners-up, of each league in the city were eligible to enter and drew positions in the bracket. All teams are scheduled to play their opening games Wednesday.

The tournament will be run on a double elimination basis, and no losing teams will be eliminated until they lose two games.

Four teams were seeded. Brooks-Shatterly, last year's state champions, drew the No. 1 position. With Georgia Power, Southern Spring Bed and Police Department coming in order named.

The winner and runner-up of the city tournament will enter the state tournament which will be held here the week of August 22, with a free trip to Chicago to enter the world's amateur championship in view for the winners of the state tourney.

PLAYS 171 HOLES.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(P)—It took Bill Coleman, 22-year-old Auburn youth, 15 hours today to play 171 holes of golf on the nine-hole, 3,154-yard layout of the Highland Golf Club course. Coleman's score for the entire play was 734 strokes.

Young Leftyhander Baffles Hornsby's Team for Eight Innings.

By JACK TROY.
The Crackers defeated the Chattanooga Lookouts, 7 to 5, last night to stretch their league lead.

In a contest requiring two hours and 40 minutes to play, the league leaders dominated the play until the ninth when an error, a passed ball, two walks, and three hits combined to give the Lookouts five runs in a futile rally.

Tom Sunkel, who's leading the league in pitching, allowed the Lookouts only four hits going in the ninth. Bill Beckman relieved with two out and retired the side.

The victory was Sunkel's 12th against five losses.

The Crackers got 10 hits and six runs off Blubber Malone in five innings and Dick West, catcher, outfielder who used to pitch for the Crackers, and held the side for the rest of the way.

Sunkel had his fast ball working well and, while he walked five, he struck out 11. Chatham error and a passed ball got him a hole in the ninth. He weakened then and Beckman came to the rescue in brilliant fashion.

ON BAT SPREE.
Of the Crackers' 13 hits, 11 were said hitless wonders—Mailho, Mauldin, Rose and Bolling got two each. Mauldin hit a triple in the eighth.

The Crackers departed last night for Knoxville, where a double-header is scheduled today. Manager Paul Richards said Beckman, Miller or Moore will pitch. The Crackers are in Knoxville through Thursday.

The Crackers scored again in the third. Mailho doubled and Mauldin drove him home with a single.

Then the league leaders came loose. They scored four in the fourth. Bolling singled. Chatham bunted and Hitchcock threw the ball away. Bolling scored. Chatham went to third. Pete singled, scoring Chatham. Sunkel singled. Mailho hit a high fly ju

Practice Rounds End Today in Annual City Golf Tourney

ET WEDNESDAY
T CAPITAL CITY

atches To Start on Thursday; Wide Open Meet Is Foreseen.

By ROY WHITE.
Final practice rounds for Atlanta's annual city golf tournament will be played this afternoon at Capital City. The course will be open to every participant who pays an entry fee before practicing. Qualifying rounds will be played Wednesday over the 18-hole site. Only one day will be given over to the qualifying round, as the match play opens Thursday and continues through Sunday.

Following today's rounds, the Capital City course will be open to participants in the city tournament and East Lake, Ansley Park and Druid Hills have indicated Capital City members to their clubs during the remainder of the week.

Scores Soar.
Intermittent showers and heavy rains have combined to send the practice scores soaring and no unusually good card has been turned in to date. In fact, most of the players are seeking only a range in their shots and no attempt has been made at low scores.

Dr. Julius Hughes, the winner of the recent Georgia amateur championship tournament; Tommy Barnes, Atlanta's open champion, and Charlie Edwards, runner-up in the 1937 city tournament, appear in the favorites' role at present.

Charlie Dannals Jr., Ike Osburn, Fred Minnich, John Grant, Bill Oliver Healey and Dave Black, Capital City members, have been playing good golf recently and will be troublesome before the week is over.

Cook Won't Defend.
Jack Cook, Tech freshman and a 1937 winner, is vacationing with his mother in North Carolina and may not defend his crown. When he left here last Friday Jack had intended to spend at least two weeks in North Carolina and things have been heard from him since he left.

With not a single player outstanding, the tournament promises to be one of the hardest fought in recent years. Any one of two dozen players have an equal chance of winning. It's a wide-open tourney, and judging from the close scores in the recent state meet, there will not be a wide variation in the qualifying scores.

Vols Set Thursday For 'Men's Night'
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 8.—The men at long last are going to be guests of honor at a Nashville baseball game. Club officials announced today that when the Vols play the Chattanooga Lookouts Thursday night, they will be admitted free after payment of the government tax. As for the women, they must pay down the usual admission price and then look forward to another of those "ladies' nights."

BIG THREAT IN CITY TOURNEY

Charlie Black Jr., secretary of the Atlanta Golf Association and runner-up in the recent Georgia amateur tournament, will be one of the chief threats in the city tournament Wednesday through Sunday at Capital City Country Club. Black is a former city and state champion and will be "at home" on the Capital City course.

Cards of 80 Fail To Make Championship Division in Constitution Tournament.

By ROY WHITE.
Atlanta's 200-odd golfers in the Constitution's novel two-club tournament at Piedmont park are somewhat amazed at the results. The scoring, 71 the medal and a 79 as the last score in the championship 32, compares favorably with other tournaments in the state in recent years.

And with few exceptions the participants are more than contented with their scoring. Mike Benton, on the Southeastern Fair's team, had an 89 in qualifying for the state tournament at Druid Hills with 14 clubs. He had the same score in the Constitution's Two-Club tournament. "And I did about as well as I did in the state," he said.

Bill Ward, in his last round at Piedmont Park, shot an 89 and in qualifying for the Two-Club tournament he shot another 89.

Professor W. O. Cheney, one of the best southpaws in the city, is the first victor. He beat Grady McDaniel, 7-6, Monday morning in a fourth division match.

J. Elgin Poole, coach of the Tech High golf team, will play Saul Senkbeil, a former member of the Smithie golf team, in a first-round match in the championship division.

The luck of the draw, placed all four members of Warren Arena's team in the upper half of the championship division. The regular United States Golf Association pairings were used. Luke Barnes, the medalist, plays Charlie Barnes (no relation) in the first match. Ralph Barnes and H. L. Bloodworth are the other members of the Arena team. And there are four Barneses in the first division.

Shoemakers Trim Team Which Beat Them for Title Last Year.

ENID, Okla., Aug. 8.—Behind the five-hit pitching of Byron Speece, who chalked up his fifteenth victory, and the hitting of Jerry McQuig with two doubles, and Andy Johnson with a double and single, the Buford Oilers defeated the crack Eason Oilers, 4 to 2, last night.

Only one earned run was garnered off the offerings of Speece, a terrific home run over the scoreboard in center by Williamson. Speece struck out 11 of the Oilers.

The Shoemakers were defeated in the national semipro tournament at Wichita last year for the championship by this same team. These two teams play here tomorrow night, with Gene Nix pitching for the Shoemakers and Lefty Wales chinking for the Oilers. A capacity crowd of approximately 2,000 witnessed the game.

COX AND SEXTON TOP MAT SHOW
Whataman Joe Cox, of Mountain View, Mo., one of the mat game's most colorful and dynamic personalities and never beaten in an Atlanta ring despite the sternest of opposition, comes to town Wednesday night to meet powerful Frank Sexton, late of Ohio State, in the main event at Warner arena.

Sexton, like Cox, has been taking all comers here, although he has done it with scientific, bonified wrestling, while Cox has employed many shady tactics, including his favorite trick of smashing his opponents' heads against the iron posts of the ring.

Sexton is hailed as the new strong man of wrestling and thinks he can curb the wild ways of the Missouri terror.

Tiny Ruff, who deserted his role of referee to don gloves and kayo Babe Zaharias last week, insists he also is the Greek's master at grappling and their semi-final match should be most interesting.

At 8:30 Rudy Strongberg, handsome German, meets Marshall Blackstock. Low summer prices are featured.

Kovacs' Coach Rebels Against USLTA Rule

By DREW MIDDLETON.
NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Charging that the United States Lawn Tennis Association sought to "intimidate" him by taking charge of his Davis cup hopeful and star pupil, Frank Kovacs, George Hudson started a one-man rebellion against the ruling body of United States tennis today.

Hudson, Oakland (Cal.), coach of Kovacs; Bobby Harman, Kovacs' doubles partner; Virginia Wolfenden, of San Francisco, and Patricia Canning, of Alameda, declared: "At the Sea Bright (N. J.) tournament, due to the pressure being brought upon Kovacs by tennis officials, it was no longer healthy for the lad to be seen in my company."

Hudson said he contemplated legal action against the U. S. L. T. A. to clear himself of implied charges that he was unduly "capitulating" his connections with young stars, including Kovacs, and for the purpose of shedding light on the "real conditions existing in amateur tennis."

At the U. S. L. T. A. offices in the city, Ed Moss, the executive secretary, told the Associated Press he knew nothing about Hudson's charges except what he had read in the papers.

Hudson said he felt his action against the U. S. L. T. A. was unfortunate, "not only for myself but for Frank as well." He ended his statement with several questions concerning the U. S. L. T. A.

"Is it not a fact that many of the leading officials are directly or indirectly connected with the business of tennis?"
"Is it not a fact that many of the large clubs are being carried by the money of the business of the tournaments?"
"Is it not a fact that tennis coaches, backed by acceptable tennis supply firms, using or advertising their merchandise, have been allowed to coach players on the Davis and Wightman cup squads?"
"Why should these same officials single out George Hudson and accuse him of exploiting and capitalizing young amateur tennis players?"

'NOOGA INVASION AT LAKEWOOD
Three teams from the Atlanta Woman's Golf Association will participate in a special invitation golf tournament today at Chattanooga, Tenn.

The event is being sponsored by the Chattanooga Country Club and teams from Rome, Knoxville, Athens and Nashville, in addition to the Atlanta team, have been entered.

Atlantans making the trip include Dorothy Kirby, former southern champion; Mrs. J. C. Wright, Mrs. W. D. Tunlin, Miss Louise Cagle, Mrs. Henry Hubbard, Mrs. E. A. Brown, Mrs. A. J. Kaiser, Mrs. T. S. Rawlings, Mrs. Guy Carpenter, Mrs. Perry Crawford, Mrs. George Dean, Mrs. Robert Mochrie and Mrs. Albert Donahue.

And if there are any players left in the city, the regularly weekly one-day tournament of the association will be played on the Druid Hills course.

Pat Berg's 73 Leads Western Golf Meet
CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Miss Patty Berg, gifted young redhead from Minneapolis, fired a blistering 73, seven strokes under women's par and only three above men's figures, in the first 18 holes of the 72-hole derby of the women's Western Golfers' Association at Butterfield Country Club today.

It is the longest medal play event for women golfers. For three years Miss Berg has played sparkling golf in the derby, but not quite good enough to catch Miss Marion Milley, of Lexington, Ky., who is seeking her fourth consecutive championship in the event.

Slim, dark-haired Miss Milley was off her usual pace today, settling for a par round of 80.

West End Matches Postponed to Friday

Obie will outweigh the Pittsburgh heavyweight by some 15 pounds, but the big Pennsylvania slugger makes up in speed what he lacks in weight.

Supporting the main go will be Kid Chocolate, of Daytona, Fla., and Straight Eight Pryor, an up-and-coming Atlanta battler, in the semi-windup. They each weigh 163 pounds.

RAIN HALTS PLAY WITH 1ST ROUND ONLY HALF OVER

Three Days' Postponement Forces Changes in Week's Program.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(AP)—For the third straight day rain interfered with the eastern grass courts tennis championships at the Westchester Country Club today, forcing officials to revise their schedule for the week in order to complete the tourney on time.

Of 36 matches scheduled today, only 18 were completed. Five were interrupted before they could be finished. As a result, the program for the rest of the week will be crowded and it may be necessary to play even the quarter-final and semi-final matches the same afternoon.

As far as it went, today's play was featured by the performance of top-seeded Alice Marble in a third-round women's single match. She whipped Helen Bernhard, of New York, one of the better young players, 6-0, 6-1, allowing her opponent four points in the first set and only 16 in the entire match.

The most interesting development in the men's play was the unexpected entry and equally unexpected exit of Ronald Shykes, a member of the British Davis cup squad. Shykes, just off the Queen Mary, was inserted into the draw against Ernie Sutter, of New Orleans, 1937 intercollegiate champion, and bowed out, 4-6, 6-0, 6-3.

He made a favorable impression, however, and is expected to do much better in the nationals at Forest Hills next month.

In the men's singles, the two seeded stars who completed their matches, Bryan (Bilay) Grant, No. 3, and Ewood Cooke, No. 5, both won handily. Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, fifth and last in the women's seeding, was eliminated in the second round, going down, 6-4, 6-1, before Margaret Osborne, of San Francisco.

Grant, slipping and skidding on the wet turf, came through with an unimpressive 6-2, 6-4 victory over Robert Prochaska, of Hartford, Conn. Coke defeated William Murphy, of Chicago, 6-0, 6-4. Wilmer Allison, the veteran Texan who is seeded fourth, took an 8-6 set from Bill Robertson, of San Marino, Cal., and huffed and puffed to a 6-5 lead in the second before rain cut the match short. Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, trimmed John Shostrom, of Chicago, 6-2, 6-4. Russell Bobbitt, another Atlantan, had little trouble in winning over Charles Rider, Malverne, N. Y., 6-3, 6-2.

Dorothy Bundy, of Santa Monica, Cal., second-seeded woman player, reached the third round by beating Emily Lincoln, of Brookline, Mass., 6-4, 6-4, then receiving a default from Helen Gruchalla, of Omaha. Mrs. Sarah Paley Fabyan, of Boston, No. 3, opened with a 6-0, 6-0 triumph over Madelon Wendon, of New Rochelle, N. Y.

200 ARE KILLED IN CANTON RAIDS

Chinese Hovering Near International Settlement Are Blown to Their Death.

CANTON, China, Aug. 9.—(Tuesday)—(P)—Japanese warplanes raided Canton for the second successive day this morning, killing an estimated 200 persons.

The greatest toll was taken by three large bombs which exploded in the heavily populated waterfront area, 400 yards from Shamen, the foreign settlement. The bombs fell in the heart of the zone where thousands of persons have been accustomed to take refuge during previous bombings, the latest of which killed 39 and injured 50 yesterday.

Little Dog Brings $1 A Day to Mistress

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 8.—(P)—The boy with the goose which laid the golden egg had nothing on the San Antonio lady with the "dollar-a-day dog."

Each afternoon for two weeks he has come, his nose dirt covered, to drop a dollar bill from his mouth into his mistress's hand. He will give the money to no other.

Folks have been unable to find the supposed buried treasure by tracking the pooch. His hiding place, like his pedigree, is shrouded in mystery.

Some of the bills are of the old-time large size, but none of ancient vintage. Bankers say none of them are on the "wanted" list.

sives violently rattled doors and windows of Shamen.

Roaring over the city at 9 a. m. (8 p. m. eastern standard time), the raiders unloaded their deadly cargoes while rescue workers were completing an all-night task of extricating victims of yesterday's attack.

Men, women and children who had sought refuge in the grounds of Canton's Catholic cathedral yesterday were blown to pieces by three bombs exploding within 20 yards of the building.

The Cantonese believed they found a safe haven beside the cathedral, plainly marked by a large French flag over the roof.

Torn and dismembered bodies littered the area in front of the cathedral after the raid. Several were injured inside the building, which was badly wrecked.

Bishop Antoine Fourquette, who has seen 43 years of service in Canton, walked through the blood-strewn grounds after the attack, looking over the rows of bodies of many small children.

"I can't understand the reason for this," he said. "There are no guns and no soldiers in this area."

Dr. Curtis Testifies on Phosphate Deal and Half-Million Profit.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 8.—(P)—Dr. Harry A. Curtis, chief TVA chemical engineer, told a congressional investigating committee today there was "no crookedness or crookedness" in the Authority's purchase of phosphate lands in middle Tennessee.

Dr. Curtis, who negotiated the deal with the International Agricultural Corporation last year, was called to testify for the third time regarding the transaction by which the company made a profit of $530,000 on an investment of $148,000.

"This proposition was entirely above board," the witness said in answer to a question by Representative James Mead, New York Democrat, who asked him if he knew of "any attempt at corruption, bribery or anything crooked."

He referred to Representative Charles Wolcott, Republican, New Jersey, who has subjected him to vigorous cross-examination about his part in the deal. Wolcott repeatedly has referred to the purchase and resultant profit to the company as a "grave matter."

SUDETEN CZECH KILLED IN BEER HALL FIGHT
BERLIN, Aug. 8.—(UP)—A member of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German minority, Wenzel Baierle, was attacked and killed in the Czech town of Glaserswald by a group of Communists and Socialists, the D. N. B. official German news agency reported tonight.

The D. N. B., quoting the newspaper Neuesten Nachrichten of Dresden, said Baierle was killed following an argument in a Glaserswald beer hall.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—(P)—It was one of those meet-the-husband-to-be visits that brought Toby Wing, actress, and Dick Merrill, aviator, to southern California today.

Announcing the wedding would take place "just after the first of the year," Miss Wing introduced Merrill to her father, Captain Paul Wing. It was the first time they had met.

17 BURGLARIES REPORTED IN CITY
Thieves' Loot Total $258 in Goods, $69 in Cash.

More than 17 burglaries, a figure well above the average according to Atlanta police, were reported in the last 24 hours. Stealing mostly from stores early Monday morning, and from homes last night, thieves escaped with $258 worth of goods, and $69 in cash.

While patrolmen were busy answering calls, Detectives Leo Nalik and M. M. Coppenger, arrested two men, believed to be purse snatchers, and held them on suspicion of robbery. One of them, Norman Dangar, 17, of Echo street, N. W., faced an additional charge of disorderly conduct. He was accused of snatching a pocketbook containing a dollar Saturday night from Mrs. Emmett Kemp, of 744 Law street, N. W. The other, Charlie Mitchell, a negro, who gave a Courtland street address, was accused of snatching a purse containing 40 cents from Mrs. Alice Lloyd, of 396 Piedmont avenue, N. E., as she walked along Peachtree between Currier and Pine streets.

Mock Trial Serious.
The mock trial was quite serious. Judge Cone was tried on four counts:

Of operating under a petticoat government. (This was ruled out by Judge Thomas, who said such a charge might get the presiding judges into trouble.)

Of second-guessing the Crackers and their manager while attending the game on a pass. (This was ruled out by Judge Thomas, who said such a charge might get the presiding judges into trouble.)

Charges Against Senate Candidate Held Up for Vote

The Avondale case of William G. McRae, Atlanta attorney and candidate for the United States senate, who is charged with speeding, running over a stop sign and disorderly conduct, besides operating a car without a driver's license, has been "put off until after election," police said last night.

Mr. McRae, his wife declared over the telephone, was in Athens, Ga., addressing a political rally during the time the case was first set for trial. She termed the charges "simply politics."

Patrolman Bob Anderson, of Avondale, who arrested McRae Friday night, declared immediately after making the arrest that the senatorial candidate became unruly after being stopped while going over 50 miles an hour. The patrolman further said McRae had no driver's license with him at the time and had run over a stop sign.

"I was on my way to address a political rally and was trying to get home to change clothes," McRae said after the arrest. "He wanted to drive my car, and I objected at first."

An Avondale policeman said last night the case would be tried "sometime in October—after election."

VOLUNTARY 'ARMY' IN STRIKE BARED
Was To Maintain Law in Little Steel Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(P)—Citizens of Warren, Ohio, told the senate civil liberties committee today that an elaborate "volunteer army" was organized to maintain law and order during last year's strike in Little Steel.

William A. Porteous and William C. Burbank, both of whom were officers in the army, testified, however, that it was never actually mobilized because 24 hours after organization plans were completed, the Ohio national guard had taken charge of the strike area.

Both told the committee the plan was to have the mayor deputize and bond the men as special police. Upon his call they were to assemble, bringing with them their own shotguns, the witnesses said. They added that a few guns were provided by the leaders.

BIG MAJORITY SEEN FOR CHACO PACT
Bolivia, Paraguay To Vote on Ratification.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 8.—(P)—Chaco conference delegates tonight predicted an overwhelming majority of the Bolivia-Paraguay arbitration treaty in both countries Wednesday.

Diplomatic information received by the neutrals indicated a large majority of Bolivians and Paraguayans are supporting ratification of the treaty, signed here July 21 to end the century-old dispute over the jungle-like Gran Chaco where three years of war ended in 1935.

The neutrals speeded plans to have the final boundary settlement ready by October 10, as prescribed by the pact.

KIN OF JEFF DAVIS DIES IN 97TH YEAR
Grand-Niece Was Authority on Confederacy.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 8.—(P)—Miss Nan Davis Smith, grandniece and oldest living relative of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy, died at her home here today after a long illness.

She will be buried tomorrow at Locust Grove plantation in West Feliciana parish, beside the grave of Sarah Knox Taylor Davis, first wife of Jefferson Davis and daughter of President Zachary Taylor.

Miss Smith would have been 97 years old September 6. She was a leading spirit in affairs pertaining to the south and the Confederacy and was a prolific writer, contributing freely to the Journal of the Confederate Veterans and the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

QUOTAS TO STAND, WALLACE IMPLIES

Conditions Do Not Justify Suspension for Leaf Growers, Roberts Told.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace indicated yesterday he was not considering suspension of marketing quotas, storm center of the 1938 bright leaf tobacco auctions.

Writing to Columbus Roberts, Georgia agriculture commissioner, Wallace said it did not appear that conditions now exist which would justify the suspension.

Roberts had requested the secretary to remove market limitation on Georgia growers. Wallace has received many similar requests from Georgia.

Wallace explained that under the 1938 Agricultural Adjustment Act quotas could be suspended only in two instances. They were: "1—If it is found that the operation of the quota will cause the quantity of tobacco available for marketing to be less than the normal supply of tobacco."

"2—If it is found that because of a national emergency or a material increase in export demand the increase or termination of the quota is necessary in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, or to meet such emergency or increase in export demand."

Explaining his statement that present conditions would not justify suspension, Wallace wrote: "Normal supply of flue-cured tobacco is estimated to be 1,601,000,000 pounds. Quantity of tobacco available for marketing is estimated to be 1,693,000,000 pounds. The estimated exports of about 430,000,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco for the year ending June 30, 1938, are not materially out of line with exports in previous years and do not represent a material increase in export demand which would warrant increase or termination of the quotas."

Wallace said where production exceeded quotas the growers would be able to sell the better grades of tobacco within the quota "and thus confine the payment of any penalties to the lower grades of tobacco."

He said that in addition a producer having tobacco in excess of the quota for his farm "may be able to have the additional quota transferred from some other farm on which the production is less than the marketing quota established for the (other) farm."

4 ACES TAKE LEAD IN BRIDGE TOURNAMENT
Team Leads Barnes Unit by 3,830 Points.

ASBURY, N. J., Aug. 8.—(P)—The Four Aces of contract bridge again exhibited their skill today, leading the quartet captained by A. Mitchell Barnes by 3,830 points at the halfway mark in the national masters team of four championship.

The Aces—Oswald Jacoby, David Burnstine, Howard Schenken, M. D. Maier, and B. Jay Becker as alternate—put out a strong Philadelphia quartet in the semi-final session. They defeated Charles Goren, Mrs. R. C. Young, John R. Crawford and Charles J. Solomon by 4,260 points.

The Barnes team of Morrie Ellis, Charles Lochridge, Fred D. Kaplan and Sherman Stearns defeated a group led by George Unger in the semi-final session by 1,510 after trailing 1,380 at the halfway mark.

Twenty teams of four started play last Wednesday.

Atlantans Meet Earl of Warwick and Gladys Swarthout in Paris

Mrs. Stuart Broeman Reveals Highlights of European Trip

By Sally Forth.

AMONG Atlantans returning from delightful travels are Mrs. Stuart Broeman and son, Stuart Broeman Jr., who recently concluded an extensive trip abroad. In answer to Sally's question concerning the celebrities she encountered in Europe, Mrs. Broeman replied that one of her most interesting experiences was meeting the handsome Earl of Warwick and Gladys Swarthout, of Hollywood and grand opera fame. The meeting occurred in La Tour d'Argent, the oldest and one of the most famous restaurants in Paris.

"It was quite a coincidence that the motion picture, 'Algiers,' was showing when we arrived in Atlanta," added Mrs. Broeman, "for we spent the most enjoyable part of our trip there!" She was both surprised and impressed upon discovering that the native women of Algiers were more than lavish in their use of cosmetics. "They looked like show girls when viewed from the first row of the audience! Their cheeks were rouged, and their lashes drooped with mascara. I was quite surprised!" Mrs. Broeman, like many others, expected Algerian women to have a rugged, un-civilized look. No doubt it was a shock to find them painted like American show girls!

American women can't match! A very exciting part of Mrs. Broeman's trip was her brief visit to Lisbon. A war disturbance occurred, and the Atlantans saw actual bombing going on! It was a wise decision that induced her to cut short her trip there, for the day after her departure a boat was bombed! Climaxing this grand trip was the Mediterranean cruise on their way home. And that, Sally thinks, is quite a climax!

A BEAUTIFUL new baby girl in any family is always cause for great joy and excitement. But, when that baby is the first girl in a family for 65 years, it is an unusual cause for rejoicing.

Such is the case of little Jane Durand Williams, who was born on Sunday morning at Emory University hospital to Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor Williams. Of course you know Mrs. Williams is the former Jane Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Morrow. Her little daughter bears her Christian name, and takes her middle name from her paternal great-grandfather, the late Henry Durand, and it is by this middle name that she will be called.

Mrs. Fannie D. Williams is little Durand's paternal grandmother, and Mrs. Henry Durand is the proud and adoring, great-grandmother of the infant.

NEWS from Mrs. Howard Bucknell, who is summering at Sunset Camp, her home built in the Adirondack mountains, indicates that she is having remarkable success with her flowers this season.

The exquisite delphinium growing several feet above Mrs. Bucknell's head was raised from seed soaked overnight, and put in a refrigerator to freeze. When the seed thawed, Mrs. Bucknell planted them. The delphinium will bloom again in the fall; beauty the garden in Upper Saratoga, N. Y.

Mrs. Bucknell is a valued member of the Peachtree Garden Club and is an ardent horticulturist. She has admired and cultivated flowers all of her life, and always plants a garden wherever she calls "home."

The rarefied air in the Adirondacks tends to produce healthy and magnificent specimens, which are lovingly cared for by Mrs. Bucknell, who spends most of her summers at Sunset Camp.

A PAIR of attractive Georgia cousins enjoying the summer at Daytona Beach includes Ernestine Egart, of this city, and Dorothy Jarvis, of Macon. The latter graduated last June from the Macon High school and Ernestine received her diploma that same month from Sacred Heart school.

Soon after their graduation, the cousins departed for Daytona to spend the summer with relatives. According to Tidal Tattle, a column edited by Marcia-Jane Walker in the Daytona Beach Reporter, the Georgia cousins are among the most popular belles summering at the Florida beach.

Mother and Father Disagree; Children Are the Victims

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

For many years my brother and I have worked and supported our parents, who are both unable to work, and we will always see to it that they are well taken care of. But should we sacrifice everything for an investment they made years ago? They expect us to keep it going and it takes every penny of my salary beyond the actual necessities of life. Long ago I quit having dates because I didn't have decent clothes to wear. (I work in uniforms which has saved me a lot, of course). I am beginning to wonder if we are doing right to burden ourselves with this investment and give up hope of personal happiness. I realize that our parents made many sacrifices for us and we want to do the right thing by them. I am now 36 and every time I have mentioned the fact that I would like to marry, I am told in a scornful voice that if I just have to have a man, I should go ahead. It's not too late for me to get quickly and I would appreciate your advice.

REGULAR READER.

ANSWER:

I think it is high time you were beginning to be somewhat selfish, to think about yourselves as well as your parents. For whatever the mitigating circumstances in connection with their investment they are certainly not showing themselves sympathetic with you and your brother.

It may be that having made so many payments on the investment it would be foolish for you to drop the matter and run the risk of losing what you've paid. Why not consult your banker on the practical aspects of the case and see if you can't work out some plan by which you can sell your equity, or arrange smaller payments which will give you a little leeway each month: money enough to replenish your wardrobe and take in a few amusements on the side.

Some parents have very short memories; they can't remember their youth nor remember that their parents died and left them and consequently they have no thought for the heartaches of their children whom they are robbing of love and liberty and personal happiness.

Whatever sacrifices parents have made for their children they shouldn't expect the children to go into life long slavery for them in return. Personally I'm always a little bit doubtful about the sincerity of these sacrifices when the parents who claim to have made them turn out to be such greedy, grasping individuals that they are willing for a son and daughter to forego love and marriage in order to vindicate their business judgment.

Of course it's your bounden duty to see that your father and mother are provided for, to the best of your ability, but it isn't your duty to burden yourselves with a debt that will break your backs and your spirits. My advice to you is to make your plans to get out from under the burden—and without delay.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Boy Has His Own Ideas About Furnishing Room

By Elizabeth McRae Boykin.

H. C. writes: "I want to ask you about my son's room which is used as both a bedroom and a den. At present the color scheme is walnut and cream, but we are changing it and he has made the following suggestions. I think his ideas would work out very well although I have a few doubts and would appreciate any corrections you might wish to make. Here is his idea:

"The furniture consists of two regular fiddle-back chairs, a reading table and a chest of drawers. He wants to paint them all in a deep blue with a bit of gold trimming here and there (the trimming being one of my doubts). A three-shelf book rack attached to the wall would be painted blue on the outside and gold within. The writing desk I want to remain in walnut as it is, along with the desk chair. The draperies will be of a deep blue chintz with small prints of sailboats in white here and there. He will have a folding day bed for which I will make a slip cover of the same material as the curtains. There is also a medium-sized over-stuffed rocker which he wants slip-covered with the same chintz, but which I think should be disposed of. Wouldn't it be too much of the same thing? He also has a set of two mariner's lamps, one for the wall and the other for the reading table. What for curtains, wall paper and woodwork. My idea was to leave the woodwork in walnut and the paper in a pale yellow with some small blue design in it. As for the curtains, I think they will have to be straight in a plain white material. Any suggestions will be appreciated."

ANSWER:

I rather join you in your doubts about the gold trimming on the blue furniture. Otherwise I think the pieces might be very nice painted blue as he suggests. You are right about keeping the desk and chair walnut. As long as they are in good finish I certainly would not paint over them. I rather share your question about having the chair in the same chintz. Could you talk him into a plain color, perhaps plain blue? The chances are he wants the

Lillian Mae's Jumper Frock Hit

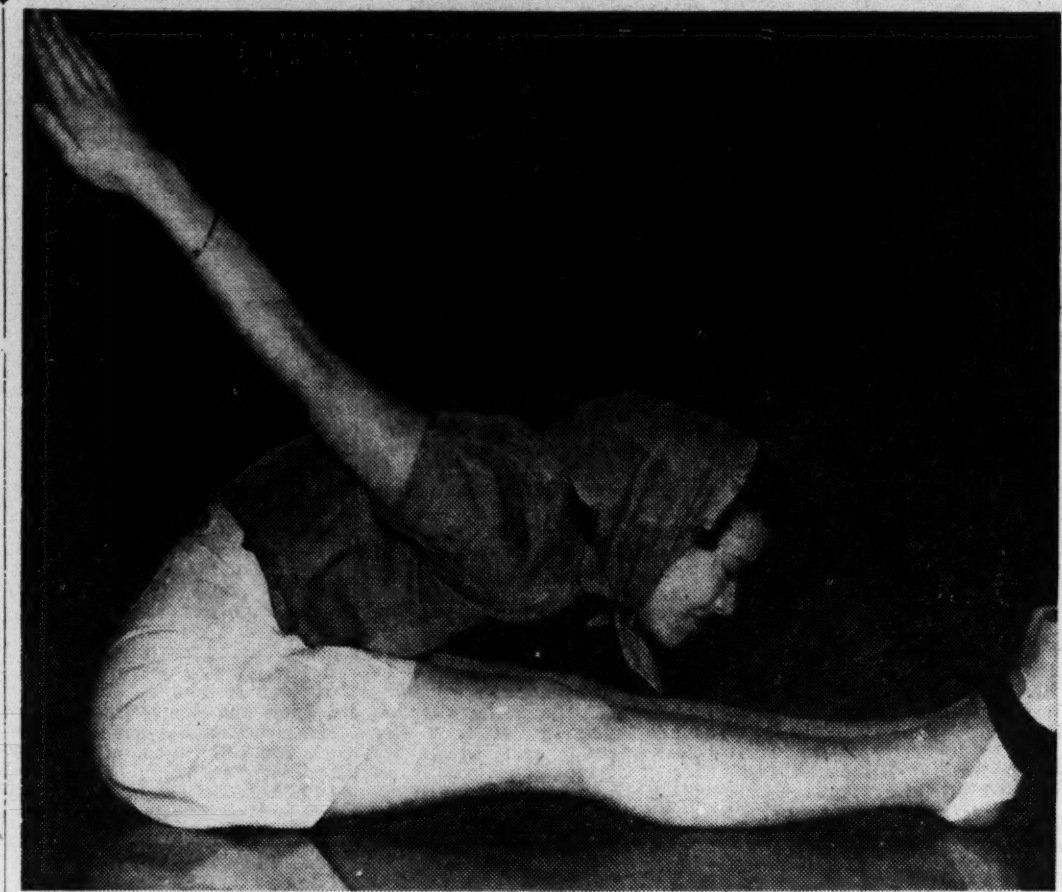

She's Teacher's Pet which isn't any wonder, if her school frocks are all as smart as this one! It's the newest Lillian Mae jumper and blouse creation that the little lass adores because it has a swing skirt just like mother's. Mother raves about Pattern 4912 to her friends because it fits so splendidly, and keeps so fresh-looking with a few different changes of blouses. Particularly style-wise parents will praise the new low-cut effect of the jumper back. (And particularly if thrifty parents will think, "My jump can wear sweaters with the jumper when the weather turns cold.") Choose firm wool and cotton—so easily stretched up into jumper and blouse!

Pattern 4912 is available in girls' and junior sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 10, jumper, takes 1-2 yards 34-inch fabric, and blouse, 1 yard 36-inch fabric.

Do you want to be a style leader in your set? Then write at once for the popular Lillian Mae Pattern Book. It's filled with hints on how to be thrifter and smarter—how to look younger, slimmer, more glamorous—how to be correctly dressed for every fashionable setting, whether sunlit or moonlit. Don't delay in sending for this fascinating book, and make yourself some really striking new clothes. Price of book 15 cents.

Slimming Waistline Is Ridiculously Easy Because Stretching Takes Minimum Effort

By Ida Jean Kain.

The "rule of thumb" will decide the question of whether or not you still have a neat and tidy waistline. Place the hands on the waist at either side and pinch yourself in. If you can pick up more than half an inch of waistline between the thumb and forefinger, that settles it—you're not streamlined.

While you are still holding these tucks in the waist look at yourself in the mirror and see how slim you would look with that extra inch or two sheared off the waistline. Well, why not put those tucks in to stay? Slimming the waist is almost ridiculously easy because stretching, which takes a minimum of effort, takes the waistline down at the rate of an inch a week.

Begin your stretching exercises simply by reaching both hands overhead, as if you expected to place the palms on the ceiling. That's more slimming than bending down to place the hands on the floor! When you are as tall as you can make yourself and feel a definite pull on the arm sockets, see if you can't stretch a little more in the middle. Pull up with the waist and tummy muscles until you are taut and slim. And to put the finishing touch on this stretch, move the arms slowly backward.

During this exercise hold the arms straight and the chin level. When you have stretched all you can, slowly relax and begin over. Now for a side stretch in this business of getting your waistline down to its proper size. Stand with your side to the wall and reach upward, sliding your hand up the wall until you feel the tug on the muscles at the side. Relax slowly, repeat five times and turn around and give your attention to the other side.

To strengthen the tummy muscles as you stretch the waist slim, stand with your face to the wall, stretching both hands upward and pulling up with the trunk muscles. Finish this part of the exercise by standing with the back to the wall and trying to touch the small of the back to the wall while stretching up.

Discipline your stretching with the aid of an old broomhandle, if you want to be sure that you are really getting the slack out of your waistline. Grasp the broom-handle near the ends, with hands wide apart, stretch upward, then bend at the waist to one side. Stretch up again, and bend to the other side. Don't let the tummy protrude as you bend sideward.

Slumping often makes the waistline appear thicker than it actually is, and these stretching routines will do away with that settled appearance. If you will stretch every day, you can be a good two inches smaller in the waist by the time you slip into your fall frock.

Crawford and Tone Have Last Stormy Conversation

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—Old-timer Hope Hampton (who does not look a day over 20—how do you do it, Hope?) wears a pink dress with wide silver sash in which to finish her song six beats after the orchestra decided to quit, at the Hollywood Bowl cinema night. Screen gangster Eddie G. Robinson's contribution to the same festive occasion is a dreary, long-winded recitation entitled "Peter and the Wolf," all about a little birdie and a little duck. (Eddie, I'm surprised at you!) Fortunately, the music drowned most of the words. The best part of a very boring evening was a speech by Dr. Lewis Browne (famous author and lecturer) congratulating Maestro Boris Morros for his courage in bringing great composers to Hollywood to write motion picture music. What's happened to the Hollywood Bowl anyway? The programs get worse every year.

Ray Bolger, wearing leather dogs for his role in "Sweethearts," tells me in the Metro commissary, "I feel like a cold Dutch plate." Gary Cooper, in a long, black coupe at a stop sign on Sunset boulevard, listens, pipe in mouth, to the radio in his car. The light switches, but Gary goes on listening until a blaring of horns reminds him that even a film star must not hold up traffic. With a flustered scraping of gears, Gary jerks forward. . . . Another car encounter—Harry Ritz, in a brand-new black sedan, going up the driveway of the Chateau Marmont, stops short as another car scrapes his fender. With tongue between his teeth, a murderous look in his eyes, Mr. Ritz pulls out of the way, lets the other through first.

Merle Oberon and George Brent dining tete-a-tete at the Cafe L'Amazee. . . . A few tables away, her girl friend, Norma Shearer, listening to the photographic exploits of Jimmy Stewart (and I mean photographic exploits; Jimmy does not go in for speeches of love). . . . And in a quiet corner, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone having their last, but stormy conversation regarding separation and divorce details, before Joan leaves town, and Tone washes up his Hollywood career, for the Broadway stage.

Fred Astaire tells me at the Brown Derby—apropos of wealth—"Joey Whitney is the happiest millionaire I've ever met." . . . Arlene Whelan, saying to a girl friend, "Oh, he's got lumbago." Does she mean Richard Green, who is busily signing autographs after a Twentieth Century-Fox "B" preview? Arlene finishes first, mops her glistening forehead, and waits patiently for the giggling 13-year-olds to finish with her fiancé. . . . Dorothy Lamour, the day before she is stricken with appendicitis, shows me the door of her new home covered with the signatures of living and departed film greats. (She bought it from the famous Door Restaurant when it was dismantled recently.)

Wallace Beery stopped by two little girls who want his autograph. His right hand is swathed in bandages. "But you can write with your left hand," pipes one of the maidens. And Wally obliges. . . . New sensation, Hedy Lamarr, and Reginald Gardiner arrive late for a recent preview, and indulge in a verbal battle that can be heard two blocks away when told there is no parking space left on the reserved lot.

Chester Morris window-shopping along the Sunset strip at 9 o'clock in the morning. . . . At the preview of "The Crowd Roars," Robert Taylor's left arm is held down by Mrs. Zeppo Marx (regular girl friend Barbara Stanwyck is home sick). He would still be signing autographs but for the friendly taxi driver who helps them escape. He drives them around the block until the crowd has dispersed, and then to the theater parking lot for Taylor's car.

On a Metro street, Dorothy Parker stops F. Scott Fitzgerald, and asks—with a note of desperation—"What do you hear from the outside world?"

Six Quarts Is Average Of Blood

By Dr. William Brady.

Approximately one-eleventh of the weight of a healthy body is blood. The quantity of blood in the body of a healthy adult as determined by measurement and by estimates is from 10 to 12 pints.

Drinking water and other fluids, even in large amounts, dilute the blood very little. The water is quickly passed through the kidneys and some of it is temporarily stored in the tissues of the body. If as much as five quarts of water is drunk in a period of two hours, it is all completely eliminated within the next 4 or 5 hours, through the kidneys and through the skin and through the lungs as water vapor, without any appreciable dilution of the blood having occurred.

If large amounts of fluid are lost from the body by sweating, whether the sweating is induced by some form of bath or by hot weather or by vigorous exercise, the blood volume is preserved by taking fluid back into the blood from the tissue spaces. Weight temporarily lost by sweating is made up within several hours, certainly within a day, by increased intake of fluid either in drinking water or in foods that contain considerable water.

A solution of approximately two teaspoonsful of common table salt, sodium chloride, in a quart of pure water is of nearly the same saline strength as the blood. This is properly called physiologic salt solution (sometimes improperly "normal" salt solution). Such physiological salt solution is fairly palatable if taken slowly. If a quart is drunk in an hour or less there is little elimination of water for many hours. But if physiological salt solution is injected into a vein elimination of water through the kidneys is promptly increased and all of the water so injected is passed out of the body within three hours. The reason for this difference is not clearly understood.

Men working in extreme heat and sweating freely are likely to suffer cramps if they drink as much water as they crave for relief of thirst. The water fails to refresh them, too. But if they make it a rule to take some salt with each drink of cold water, the water not only refreshes but they are much less liable to suffer from cramps or to have heat exhaustion or sunstroke if exposed to sun. The salt helps to keep more water in the blood and tissues. It is now the best industrial practice to provide suitable vending machines alongside the water fountains so that a salt tablet may be taken with every drink of water. Men who are exposed to great heat or sunlight should remember this.

Book Tells How To Arrange Wedding

So you're going to be a bride! And you wonder if you should have a formal or informal wedding—what each requires!

Your purse may decide—but either wedding will be lovely if you plan well, keep details in harmony.

At the formal wedding you realize that cherished dream of regal wedding dress, veil and bouquet.

The groom and the other men in your bridal party wear cut-away and striped trousers at afternoon weddings, tail coats and white ties at evening ones.

And you'll want to give a gala reception, perhaps a breakfast if the wedding's at noon.

But you can't afford all that! Then make yours the most charming of informal weddings.

At a daytime wedding, wear a becoming dress or suit, a smart hat, gloves—and a corsage. The groom and best man wear dark business suits, boutonnières.

In the evening wear a simple white dress with a short veil or a dinner dress and hat. The men wear dinner coats. Refreshments very simple.

As for budgeting, etiquette details, be perfect on these, too! Know who should pay for what, whether you should send invitations or announcements, who sits where in church. . . . Our 40-page booklet, "How to Plan Your Wedding," answers all your questions on formal, informal weddings. Pointers for guests.

Send 15 cents for your booklet, HOW TO PLAN YOUR WEDDING, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

MY DAY: First Lady Enjoys 'New Deal for Youth'

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday.—At last there is some relief from this warm weather which has made so many people uncomfortable! Having taken iced coffee for supper Friday night, I was able to read late in bed and feel the delicious change in the atmosphere which came toward early morning.

When I went into Poughkeepsie yesterday morning to have some of the salt I had accumulated washed out of my hair, the first thing my hairdresser said was: "How glad I am that my vacation begins this evening! The heat has made me feel I simply cannot move."

The privileged ones among us, who vacation all the time, at least to the extent that all we do we do from choice, miss a good deal probably in not planning and anticipating the time when we choose our own occupations.

It was fun running around yesterday morning doing the household buying. I stopped for a second to speak to a crippled man who sits in a chair selling paper on the corner of a Poughkeepsie street. He sits there winter and summer and I have come to count on his cheerful smile and pleasant greeting. What courage it must take. Yesterday, he and a little colored newsboy were busy solving some problem, and I imagine he does many helpful things for these youngsters. Most of us would feel that our ability to help anyone else had reached its vanishing point if we were in his shoes.

I am reading a book written by Betty and Ernest Lindley called "A New Deal for Youth." It was written as a report for the President of the activities of the Youth Administration, but it is far more than a report. It is interestingly written and, in addition, it gives the picture of youth in this country as it appears to the eye of trained observers who are seeing this side of the nation for the first time. The facts these two writers set forth simply corroborate the findings of the youth commission.

The problem to deal with is here for us. The authors go on to show what the government has been able to do for a very small percentage of those who need assistance. This is valuable chiefly because it stirs the imagination and makes one hope that the younger generation can work out new problems in new ways. I find this book interesting, and have gained much knowledge from it in spite of the fact that I have tried to follow this work rather closely, just as I try to be familiar with much else that youth do along many lines.

I hope people reading this book will not be content with reading alone, but will find out what is going on in their communities and lend a helping hand. Youth needs the praise and counsel of older heads more than the blame and criticism which often comes its way if it makes some mistake or indulges in some foolish adventure.

Projecting Squeeze Play Explained By Bridge Expert

By Harold Sharpsteen.

East and West having won three rounds of diamonds, after South played the Ace, and one trick with East's Spade King when declarer's finesse failed, Declarer was confronted with the problem of winning the remaining eight tricks at notrump with his hands reduced, as West led the Club Ten, to:

(Dummy)
S—A J 10 7
H—7
D—None
C—A J 9

West
S—4
H—A Q J 10 8
D—None
C—6 3
(Declarer)

Without a possible squeeze, declarer is lost, for it is a certainty West does not hold the Club King-Queen or he would have led one to set up the other. But if East is required to protect both clubs and spades by retaining the Club King and K x x hearts to prevent declarer's heart finesse from succeeding, declarer sees a possible squeeze in the offing.

CHECKS REQUIREMENTS.

Dummy's Club Jack furnishes declarer with his essential one-card "threat" suit and his own heart suit, containing a potential four-trick supply his two-or more card threat.

Eight tricks remain to be played. East must find five "busy" cards to be squeezed. To reach the point of squeeze, declarer must win the next three tricks. Dummy's Club Ace and Ace and Jack of Spades fulfill this requirement.

LEAD AND ENTRY.

Dummy's Spade Ten supplies the necessary squeeze lead. The Heart Seven the essential quick entry-card into the opposite hand containing the two-or-more-threat suit.

When declarer plays dummy's Club Ace and Spade Ace-Jack, his hopes are fulfilled as the hands are reduced to:

East
S—(10) 7
H—7
D—None
C—J 9

South
S—None
H—A Q J 10 8
D—None
C—None

EAST IS HELPLESS.
Dummy's squeeze-lead of the Spade Ten renders East helpless. If East discards his Club King, Dummy's Club Jack not only will win a trick but will force East to give up a "busy" heart. If East discards a heart declarer makes five heart tricks.

Former Deb Reveals Secret Pangs, Answers Queries and Offers Rules

To Debut or Not to Debut? Is Momentous Problem Today

By Kathryn Barnwell, member of the Debutante Club of 1936-37. She reveals, through personal experience, secret worries which may be encountered by prospective debutantes of 1938-39, and answers questions and gives rules relative to the subject.

The mad moment of decision is most here! Beginning the day you return from wherever you've been, you are like "a worm under the microscope." Unlimited curiosity is pointed in your direction. Are you, or are you not going to debut? You will hear that from at least 50 sources, so you might as well give it serious thought and relieve the misery of those around you by making up your mind.

You say it ought to be your problem. Of course it ought to be your problem! But did you ever hear of a deb's decision being her own?

Mother and Father. First, you'll have to confer with mother and father. There will be a great deal of adding and subtracting behind the family frontier. There will be frequent arguments concerning the clothes which "darling daughter" will wear in public, and more than likely, a slight frown, will for a short time, dominate father's features. But this will pass.

Next you will encounter the inevitable "nasty crack." I refer to his statement: "You're putting yourself on the auction block!" I hope that when you hear it (for you can't miss it) you'll take special pains to annihilate the offender. Many people who know better sometimes misinterpret the motive for bowing to society. Like the northern conception of the southern term "you all," it is greatly misunderstood. It has always surprised me that intelligent people believe that the only excuse for "coming out" is to get married! Girls since the beginning of time have loved dancin', pretty clothes, powers and beaux. Therefore, is it conceivable that a girl has to "come out" in order to have a good time?

Having disposed of these "stunning blocks," you will have to contend with your personal friends, who do not want to "come out," and have a close friend who has decided that you shall, then may even help you! You're as bad as the man who has refused to attend a party that his wife has accepted! If you do wish to "bow," ignore the discouraging remarks of others! They are, no doubt, trying to help you, but unless one has experienced a debutante season, he is unqualified to give advice.

Important Rules. Below are a few rules which may or may not be helpful:

1. In addition to your chosen escort, it is wise to have one or two others in mind in case said No. 1 falls through!
2. Don't let your head be turned by foolish flattery. You'll encounter plenty of it as a deb, but bear in mind that you are playing a game of chance, and a level head will do much toward helping you overcome any odds that might arise.
3. Keep yourself in good physical condition! You can't keep the ace in low gear!
4. Make an honest effort to answer the questions of the family attentively!
5. Seize every opportunity to relax! There won't be many. But some of those offered will perhaps save your life—and do wonders for your disposition!
6. Don't go with one boy to all the parties! He may be charming, but give the others a chance. They may have him beat!
7. Be prompt about acknowledging invitations and writing "thank you notes!" The fact that you are busy will never excuse rudeness.
8. By all means be systematic about your date book! A genius couldn't keep straight all the engagements you will have! (And don't allow the family to make notions in it! A date book containing several types of handwriting resembles a tablet of Egyptian hieroglyphics! (I know!))
9. Don't be upset by small catastrophes! Save your strength. You'll need it!
10. Last, but not least, remember that upon occasion debutantes have achieved a reputation for heavy drinking. You will not be beyond the pale for accepting a cocktail, but several may spoil an otherwise good impression. It is neither smart nor sophisticated.

EARLE PROBE PLAN DECLARED ILLEGAL

Legislative Committee Chairman Speeds Case to State Supreme Court.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.—(P)—Governor George H. Earle's plan to substitute a legislative committee for the grand jury in the investigation of charges against himself and 13 associates was ruled unconstitutional today as an "invasion of judicial power."

An appeal from the opinion of Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, specially assigned to Dauphin county (Harrisburg) for the court inquiry was taken immediately to the state supreme court, by Attorney General Guy K. Bard and the chairman of the legislative committee.

Chief Justice John W. Kephart said that he would hold a hearing tomorrow.

The laws in question, passed a week ago at a special legislative session, would suspend the Dauphin county grand jury inquiry into the charges of blackmail, extortion and coercion for political purposes in the spring primary campaign, and would give the legislature prior right to conduct such an investigation of civil office holders, with a view to impeachment first and criminal action second, if found guilty.

Club Will Draft Plans To Better Techwood Area

Discussion of plans for improving the Luckie-Techwood section will feature a meeting of the Luckie-Techwood Civic Club at 8 o'clock tonight in the Payne Memorial Methodist church, C. C. Styron, president of the club, said yesterday.

At a recent meeting of the newly-organized club, C. W. Bernhardt pointed to the need of an up-to-date playground for the youth of the vicinity. It was decided to request city officials to examine the possibility of placing a playground in the section.

"Property owners of this district, all of whom are invited to our meetings, are planning many other innovations looking toward improvement of living conditions and providing an adequate inducement for good citizens to move here," Mr. Styron declared. "This section is in the midst of the new government apartment project and its proximity to the business section, it could and should be a most desirable residential section."

Among many parties honoring Miss Jule Sellers, of Montgomery, last week Miss Hatcher and her guest, Miss Hatcher, were the dinner at which Miss Virginia Burns was hostess recently. Friday evening Miss Hatcher was her guest at the dinner party given by Miss Elizabeth Gibbs at her home on Brenau avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gibbs assisted in entertaining the 14 guests who included the entire Brenau chapter of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Mrs. W. D. Wallace, of 1143 Gracewood avenue, S. E., admitted to Georgia Baptist hospital yesterday for surgical treatment, was reported "in good condition and resting comfortably" last night by attendants.

Mary Clonts, daughter of W. and Mrs. E. M. Clonts, of 23 Weyman street, N. E., was "in good condition" last night at the Ponce de Leon Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Infirmary, attendants said.

1914 Vintage Auto Grows Into Vineyard of 1938

Dorothy Martin harvesting grapes grown by her grandfather, J. D. Martin, conductor on the Piedmont Limited of the Southern Railway, operating between Atlanta and Salisbury, N. C. And "Cap" Martin knows his farming as well as directing trains over the rails. This vineyard is in the city limits of Atlanta, just off Marietta street. The vineyard is the result of a swap of an automobile of 1914 vintage for a vacant lot upon which "Cap" Martin grows grapes. "It's not a case of sour grapes."

Conductor on Stream-Line Train Goes In for Stream-Line Farm

'Cap' Martin Swaps 1914 Model Auto for Vacant Lot in City Limits and Produces Grapes, Vegetables and Other Edibles To Pay Him Good Profit.

By A. D. MANNING.

Speaking of stream-line trains, J. D. Martin, a conductor on the Piedmont Limited, operating between Atlanta and Salisbury, N. C., has gone in for stream-line farming he explained yesterday.

"Cap," as he is known up and down the rails between Atlanta and Salisbury, swapped an automobile of 1914 vintage for a vacant lot located just off Marietta street. Today he has a real crop of grapes to show for his bartering and gardening ability.

In addition to this vineyard of grapes, "Cap" Martin has produced figs, cherries, plums, peaches and apricots on this lot. He has planted potatoes and corn between the grape vines and expects to "pull into the yards" this fall with enough manifest to carry his family "over the hill" for a greater part of the winter.

A brief check by the auditing department of Martin Farming, Incorporated, already shows a neat profit. Martin has sold fifty-six dollars worth of grapes and expects to more than double this sum.

"Cap" Martin, who has high-

MACON YOUTH, 14, FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Two Transfusions Given Boy Shot Accidentally.

Roy Johnston, 14-year-old Macon youth, who was shot in the stomach Sunday by a charge from a rifle used in the War Between the States, was fighting for his life last night in Emory University hospital.

The boy has received two blood transfusions since the accident, one from Philmon Myers, 15, who was handling the gun that shot him.

Johnston was shot while he and Myers were examining a 410-gauge shotgun, and an old rifle in Myers' home on Ray's road. Clarkston. Myers said he was pulling the rifle trigger, thinking the gun unloaded, when a shotgun charge that he later remembered placing in the barrel went off, wounding Johnston in the abdomen and left arm. The rifle had been used by Myers' grandfather in the War Between the States.

BOY PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFT OF AUTO

Judge, However, Suspends 5 to 7-Year Term.

Eugene Marques, 17, pleaded guilty yesterday in Fulton superior court to a robbery in which he posed as a prospective customer for an automobile, went for a trial drive with the salesman and then took the car from him at the point of a gun.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey gave the youth a five-to-seven-year sentence and then ordered the sentence suspended. On a charge of illegal possession of a pistol, Judge Dorsey added an additional 12 months for the youth and ordered it suspended.

Marques was jointly indicted with Harold Mammos, 21, by the grand jury recently on a charge of taking W. C. Massey, auto salesman, for a ride and then putting him out and taking the car.

Surviving, besides the son, E. G. Gibson, who is connected with the Southern Railway System, are two other sons, A. C. and N. L. Gibson, and two daughters, Mrs. E. E. Hayden and Mrs. John E. Webb.

The body will be taken to Marietta for burial. Funeral services here will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

What Stocks Did.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(P)—The stock market today and leading issues backed down fractions to around 2 points.

While selling was light throughout, rallying attempts were equally unimpressive. At that time, several new issues of stocks, several new issues of bonds, and a number of new issues of preferred stocks, were being offered.

Business news, on the other hand, continued to provide a pessimistic picture. The report of a strike by the American Federation of Labor (AFL) in the steel industry, and the report of a strike by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (UBCA) in the construction industry, were among the factors that weighed on the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off 4 1/2 points at 101.39. Transfers totaled 1,169,940 shares.

The list got off to a lower start and failed to recover a great deal of lost ground at any time. The market was frequently at a standstill, and the failure of large offerings to come out on time, and the failure of large offerings to come out on time, were among the factors that weighed on the market.

Steele's downward reversal. The week's mill operations were placed at 39.4 per cent of capacity, off 4.4 of a point from last week. This was the second set-back for this barometer since the upturn got under way the last part of May.

Although Chrysler was a soft spot, General Motors managed to hold its own. The company reported a 1938 sales to consumers in the United States during July topped the July total of a year ago.

On the curb, but losses running to a point or so were in the majority. Sales approximated 141,000 shares against 146,000 Friday.

U.S. BONDS ADVANCE COTTON LOSES $1.70 BUT UTILITIES DROP ON CROP ESTIMATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Following are today's high and closing prices of bonds on the New York stock exchange and the total dollar volume of each bond.

Table with columns: Sales (in $1,000s), High, Low, Close. Rows include various bond types like U.S. Gov. Bonds, U.S. Corp. Bonds, etc.

Industrials Also Sag, Although Ralls Hold Steady as List Idles.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(P)—The bond market idled around today, with railroads holding fairly steady, as a group, and with industrials and utilities slightly lower.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails was unchanged at 61.4, gains of fractions to a point were shown by Boston & Maine 5 1/2, Santa Fe 4 1/2, Delaware & Hudson 4 1/2, and Erie General 4 1/2.

On the downside around the same extent were B. & O. convertible 1-2s at 18, Great Northern 1-2s at 18, Illinois Central 4 3/4-4s at 42, Nickel Plate 4 1-2s at 42 1-4, and Southern Pacific 4 1-2s at 42 1-4.

Market analysts believed the observation of Jesse H. Jones, RBC chairman, in Amsterdam, that the price of some railroad bonds was too low, had little if any effect on the market today. The market was received here only a few minutes before the close.

The average of 10 industrials was 3 lower at 100.0 and the average of 10 utilities at 93.8 was likewise 3 lower.

Foreign bonds, with the exception of Japanese issues, did little either way. The average Howlands at 62.8 was changed. Howlands at 62.8 was changed. Howlands at 62.8 was changed.

COTTON ESTIMATED AT 11,988,000 BALES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(P)—The Federal Crop Reporting Board forecast today an 11,988,000-bale cotton crop for 1938, an estimate 6,958,000 bales below last year's production and smaller than any crop since 1935.

The Agriculture Adjustment Administration awaited price reaction from the estimate to determine whether loans will be mandatory under the new farm act.

A loan program is required to be established under the law if the average price on the principal markets falls below 52 per cent of parity, or about 8.27 cents per pound on the basis of the present parity figure of 15.5 cents a pound.

The price on the principal markets averaged 8.49 cents Saturday after the usual recess while awaiting the report today, December contracts reopened on New York Cotton Exchange at 8.34 cents, compared with the day's opening of 8.44.

The cotton loan rate, if a loan becomes necessary, between about 8.27 and 11.92 cents a pound.

The Crop Reporting Board's estimate of average yield per acre was 217.9 pounds less than in 1937, which was the highest since 1935.

The condition of the crop indicates a yield of 217.9 pounds, compared with 266.9 pounds last year, which was a record yield.

The crop totaled 11,988,000 bales last year, compared with 18,946,000 bales in 1937, a record yield.

Eager Buyers of U. S. Bonds Seen

As Spending Plan Gets Under Way

One Expert Predicts Treasury

Will Enter Market for Half Billion.

By GEORGE T. HUGHES.

(Copyright, 1938, by The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—With the "spending-lending" campaign gradually getting under way, the status of government finances became of timely interest. One authority predicts that the Treasury will enter the market next month for half a billion of new money, and, of course, that will be only a beginning.

There is no doubt that the new bonds or notes or whatever evidence of debt are offered will be readily taken. There is a limit somewhere to the amount of debt the nation can carry, but no one knows what it is and it is not in sight now.

Bearing on this point, the experience of the last two weeks is illuminating. Although bills outstanding increased $50,000,000 in each of these weeks, both the member banks and the Federal Reserve reduced their holdings, as non-banking investors, supposedly corporations, stepped up the offerings. General Motors alone is understood to have taken some $53,000,000 of the bills.

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY No. 74

With horrified eyes, Helen watched the furious Zyth rushing at her with sword drawn to strike her down. To try to escape was useless. Even if she ran back down the corridor, Zyth would overtake her, or she would be trapped by the other priests.

At this moment, Tarzan, too, was in peril on his life. In the arena of Thobos, two wild lions were charging him. One he could have conquered; he had done it many times. But two! Though given a knife, even the mighty Jungle Lord couldn't stand a double assault!

The occupants of the Royal box watched the impending tragedy with varying emotions. Thetan's heart was heavy, for he knew his friend would die. King Herat leaned forward eagerly—lips parted, eyes dilated. He meant this to be Tarzan's execution!

The ape-man stood still. He had conceived the only plan that might prove effective against the two great beasts, but it was a doubtful plan. Presently, the leading lion came upon him, and reared above him. Queen Mentheb hid her eyes and screamed!

THE BOSTON IRISH
EMBRACE CORRIGANShanty-b'ys and Beacon Hill
'Swells' Join in Wild Adulation.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—(UP)—"Twas a great day for Boston, especially its thousands of Irish, as the shanty-b'ys and their lace-curtain brethren joined with Beacon Hill Brahmins in noisily enthusiastic adulation of Douglas Corrigan, the 'wrong-way flyin' lad with the engagin' smile."

More than 500,000 swarmed over Beacon Hill much in the manner that the British surged over Bunker Hill, but it was a bloodless battle that waged for possession of the cloud-skipping hero of the Irish.

Police cordons sought vainly to stem the human tide that swept over the historic common as the celebration of Corrigan's flight to California by way of Dublin, Ireland, reached its climax.

Earlier, the futility of trying to keep the throng away from their hero was realized by the blue-coats—whose eyes twinkled, for they, too, were mostly Irish—so Doug was the center of a jubilant, uncontrolled mob at the East Boston airport, at the Chelsea city hall and at Beacon Hill.

As Georgia Notables Dedicated New Cornelia Pool

Senator George was the principal speaker yesterday at the dedication of the $25,000 swimming pool at Cornelia's community house, recently completed with WPA aid. He is shown here (center) with Sam Kimsey (left), Cornelia city attorney, and Judge Frank Gabrels, Habersham county ordinary and member of the board of county commissioners.

CORNELIA CITIZENS
DEDICATE POOLGeorge and McGill Pay Triute To Civic Spirit of Town.

CORNELIA, Ga., Aug. 8.—Cornelia's newest Kiwanis-sponsored project—a $25,000 swimming pool at the handsome community house on the outskirts of the city—was dedicated today at a county-wide celebration at which Senator George was the principal speaker.

Georgia's senior senator, in a non-political dedicatory address, paid glowing tribute to the civic spirit which made possible construction of the community center and pool. Local spokesmen in turn attributed interest in the projects largely to Habersham county's spirited participation in The Atlanta Constitution's 1937 Progressive County Awards program, citing the community house as one of the major items in the county's plan of progress.

Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, represented his paper at the celebration and shared speaking honors with Senator George. Mr. McGill likewise praised the residents of Cornelia and of Habersham county for their vision and spirit of co-operation in the development of city and county.

Among other speakers were Miss Gay B. Shepperson, Georgia WPA director; Cornelia's Kiwanis Club president, Harry W. Ferrier; City Commissioner W. T. Brewer; Sam Kimsey and Judge Frank E. Gabrels, county ordinary and member of the board of commissioners of roads and revenues. Mayor A. Linton Crawford was master of ceremonies.

Others present for the celebration and dedication included Robert L. MacDougald, assistant to Miss Shepperson; E. R. Sims, of Gainesville, resident WPA engineer, and other WPA officials.

McWhorter now pretends eleven-

Who wonders that, after a confer-

The magnitude and desperation

Body of Sainly Beauty Still 'Lives'
In Iron Coffin 60 Years After Death

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 8.—(UP)—For more than 60 years, according to the story, the body of beautiful Jennie Fish has lain in her cast-iron coffin, blond hair curling naturally about pink, firm cheeks, her shroud still fresh and white.

Her body was placed in the family vault, where it remained until six years ago when the vault began to crumble and the caskets were removed. A casket salesman, who noted the phenomenal preservation of the body, obtained permission from relatives to remove the casket to the basement of his home near Madison.

Today, a 25-year-old carnival worker, John Allen, offered $25 and 10 per cent for permission to exhibit the body in a sideshow.

"It deserves removal from a basement to a place where it can be seen by many, a scientific marvel with educational value," he said.

Supernatural has arisen around the figure, lying beneath the glass top of the now rusted coffin.

Some said her beauty had been preserved in death because in life she was saintly, and that there was a religious significance.

At Fox Lake, Wis., where Jennie Fish died in 1873, old-timers said the body never had been embalmed, that at the time of her death that portion of the undertaking act was not practiced in pioneer Wisconsin. Undertakers said that was true.

DR. WOOFER DIES;
GEORGIA EDUCATORTaught at Mercer, G.S.C.W.
Before Going to Georgia.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 8.—Dr. Thomas Jackson Woofor, 75, dean emeritus of the Peabody school of education of the University of Georgia, died at his home here tonight after a long illness.

Dr. Woofor, widely known as an educator and author, served a number of years on the faculties of Mercer University at Macon, and Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, before joining the University of Georgia staff in 1902.

Surviving Dr. Woofor are the wife, the former Miss Calender Gerding, of Macon, and one son, Thomas J. Woofor Jr., of Washington, D. C., co-ordinator of rural research in the Works Progress Administration.

France To Build 'Second Singapore'
To Protect Her Colonies in Far East

PARIS, Aug. 8.—(UP)—The government tonight decided to build a great French naval base in southern Asia to defend French colonies and concessions in the war-ridden Far East.

The base will be centered around Camranh, on the east coast of Annam, 700 miles west of Manila. Officials said that it will be "a second Singapore" and that fortification of the entire bay area was being undertaken as result of the Russo-Japanese border clashes and the unexpectedly long duration of the Chinese-Japanese war.

Creation of the base was seen as a blow at Japan and designed to prevent possible Japanese occupation of the big Chinese island of Hainan which dominates the sea approaches to French Indo-China.

Officials said that Camranh will complete the British base in Singapore and will not be a rival to the British base since Franco-British military and political collaboration has been established on a world-wide basis.

The French recently occupied the Paracel islands, south of Hainan, and warned Japan that occupation of Hainan would be considered an unfriendly act.

Creation of the base is not designed to aid Soviet Russia, it was emphasized, since the Franco-Russian alliance is effective only in Europe and not in the Far East.

JURORS TAKEN OVER DEATH TOUR ROUTEDwyer's Lawyer Testifies Boy Told Him Ex-Deputy Threatened Life.

SOUTH PARIS, Maine, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Death threats that forced 19-year-old Paul (Buddy) Dwyer to confess two murders he allegedly did not commit were told an Oxford county jury today as 15 state witnesses testified at the trial of the so-called "real slayer"—former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll.

The jury then visited the "death route" followed by Dwyer.

On the morning of last December 2, in the midst of Dwyer's trial for the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield, the youthful defendant purportedly told his attorney, E. Walker Abbott:

"Got to Plead Guilty."

"I've got to plead guilty to this murder. I can't go through with it. My life has been threatened and my mother's life has been threatened. I'm going to get out of here where I can be by myself."

This statement was repeated by Abbott today to the jury that must decide whether Carroll, the deputy sheriff who guarded Dwyer pending the trial, was the "real slayer" of Dr. Littlefield and intimidated Dwyer into confessing the crime.

Dwyer also has accused Carroll of murdering the physician's wife, but the ousted law officer has not been charged with the crime.

Though he originally confessed that slaying, too, Dwyer was never tried for it.

Visit Death Scene.

Shortly after the afternoon session began, the jury and Carroll were taken in buses to the field on Turkey Ridge hill where Dwyer said Carroll strangled Mrs. Littlefield. Then they visited the "heater piece" in New Gloucester, 26 miles away, where Dwyer allegedly shifted Mrs. Littlefield's body from the front seat to the tonneau of the death car before proceeding to North Winton, N. J., where he was arrested last October 16.

Because of the lateness of the hour, court did not resume and was declared adjourned until tomorrow morning.

With the return of cool weather, the biggest crowd of the trial appeared at the county courthouse to lay. Many tourists were among the 350 spectators. Both Carroll's wife and 17-year-old daughter, Barbara, were present. It was Barbara's passionate romance with young Dwyer that allegedly indirectly motivated the crime.

The day's principal witness, Attorney Abbott, testified that Dwyer "broke down and cried" and told him the "true story" of the murders for the first time some time last November.

Afterward, he said, Dwyer was taken to the jail by Deputy Sheriff Carroll. That night, Abbott said, he was called to the jail and Dwyer told him "not to believe the story that he told me that afternoon."

Witness Tells Story.

Mrs. Eva Andrews, 56, of New Gloucester, testified that she saw a youth drive by her home on the morning of October 15 in an automobile with an elderly woman resting her head on his shoulder. She believed the woman was either "drunk, sick or dead." The automobile was headed toward the "heater piece," she said.

Her husband, Carroll Andrews, recalled hearing an automobile horn sounded from the direction of the "heater piece" and three other New Gloucester residents testified that they saw a black car headed toward that section on the morning of October 15.

The day's other witnesses corroborated minor details in Dwyer's testimony last week concerning the murder of Dr. Littlefield October 13 and that of his wife some 30 hours later.

After Dwyer pleaded guilty December 2, Abbott said he told High Sheriff Fernando F. Francis "he'd better investigate Francis Carroll." Abbott said he later spoke "several times" to Francis about Carroll.

Francis, the first witness this morning, already had told the jury that his suspicions as to Carroll's possible part in the murders first were aroused on the day that Dwyer pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Another deputy sheriff, Sidney Verrill, told him substantially the same story that Dwyer since has told the court, Francis said.

roll caused "some trouble in the way of drinking." He removed Carroll from regular duties, Francis said, but gave him "work that would take up his mind and keep him where we could watch him."

Francis testified that he found no bloodstains on the front seat of the death car, but did discover a spot just behind it.

Mrs. Myrtle Burgess, who lives near Turkey Ridge hill, testified that she heard a woman's "very distressed scream" one night during the week of October 10-17, and Frank Albert Starbird, a salesman, said he saw a car parked in a field on the hill about midnight, October 14—shortly before Mrs. Littlefield was murdered.

BASEBALL BRAWL
LEADS TO SHOOTING

White Man Fatally Shot in Savannah Dispute.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 8.—A baseball knocked into the backyard of a negro residence here yesterday precipitated a brawl that led to the slaying of Hollis Bragg, 28-year-old white man.

Detective S. W. Coursey quoted witnesses as saying the fatal pistol shot was fired by a negro he booked as Sam Hannah, 52.

Bragg, who went to retrieve the ball that was knocked into Hannah's yard during a game on a vacant lot, died a few minutes after the 32 caliber bullet passed almost through his body.

The detective said friends of Bragg told him Hannah invited Bragg into the house to get the ball, but Hannah denied it, and said entrance was made at his protest. Bragg was shot during the quarrel and Hannah struck with a baseball bat.

PARIS WILL HAVE BOMB-PROOF 'PIT'Shelter Will Provide Refuge for Members of Parliament.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Ground has been broken behind the chamber of deputies for a vast bomb-proof shelter where the lower house of parliament may hold sessions underground even while enemy bombers are attacking the capital.

With parliament on vacation, officials of Bourbon palace which houses the deputies, revealed work had begun on the most elaborate bomb refuge in France, and one of the biggest in Europe.

In the garden where parliament met under Charles X more than a century ago workers are digging on the job which may take months to complete.

The shelter will have rooms not only for the deputies but also for the permanent staff of ushers, guards, clerks and various committees.

Trees now in the garden will be left standing to hide both the palace and its refuge from the view of airmen.

One of the builders' problems will be keeping waters of the Seine river out of the underground quarters.

Escape doors may provide the deputies with access to the network of Paris sewers should bombs block other exits.
